South Viet General Claims Red Division Wiped Out

SAIGON (AP) — A top-ranking South Vietnamese field commander claimed today that his forces had virtually destroyed a North Vietnamese army division in three months of fighting around Fire Base O'Reilly in the northern sector of South Vietnam.

Lt. Gen. Hoang Xuan Lam, commander of the northern quadrant of South Vietnam, told newsmen in Da Nang that his forces, with support from American bombers, had wiped out the equivalent of two regiments from the North Vietnamese 324B Division.

"The 324B Division which tried to take O'Reilly has been rendered almost ineffective," said Lam. "The enemy has conducted only sporadic shelling attacks in recent days. We are firmly in control and conditions are excellent."

Lam gave no casualty figures for either side.

Fire Base O'Reilly had been under artillery siege since late July, and American bombers flew hundreds of raids against North Vietnamese positions surrounding it.

On the battlefields of South Vietnam, the U.S. Command said activity increased slightly during the past 24 hours with five engagements in the northern sector, the central highlands and along the coastal plain. The command said 27 North Vietnamese troops and six Americans were killed and 13 Americans wounded in the five fights.

A U.S. Navy OV10 spotter aircraft and a U.S. Army helicopter were shot down in different parts of South Vietnam. Both crewmen aboard the OV10 bailed out and were rescued with minor injuries. The two crewmen aboard the helicopter were killed.

In its Vietnamization program, the U.S. Army turned over to the South Vietnamese squadron of 16 CH47 Chinook helicopters, each capable of carrying 44 troops or heavy cargo loads.

Elsewhere in Indochina, sources in Saigon said a South Vietnamese C119 twin-engine cargo plane crashed on takeoff from Phnom Penh Airport after landing ammunition. Sources said all five crewmen were missing.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops again attacked the rear of a Cambodian offensive operation stalled 47 miles north of Phnom Penh.

Associated Press correspondent John T. Wheeler reported that the fighting was about five miles behind the Cambodians' front line in the Taing Kauk area.

Six Cambodian soldiers were reported wounded. The body of one enemy soldier was found.

President Says Mediterranean No U.S. Lake

Should Be Free To All Peoples, Audience Told

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — President Nixon took time out from top-level discussions on the Middle East today to tell a NATO audience that the Mediterranean should not be an American sea but one "that will belong to all peoples."

Before flying to Communist Yugoslavia, the next stop on his European tour, Nixon strongly reaffirmed the U.S. commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in an address at NATO's southern command headquarters in a Naples suburb.

Standing in bright sunshine on a plaza in front of the NATO headquarters building, the President said that "in a period of instability, uncertainty and a possible lack of confidence," people need an instrument they "can hang onto."

He said NATO is that instrument, and declared that the United States "remains strong and firm in its commitment" to the alliance.

Nixon asserted that NATO serves the best interests of all its member countries and said the United States is determined that the Mediterranean "will not be our sea but a sea that will belong to all peoples."

Nixon went to the headquarters to discuss the "general strategic posture" of the United States in the Mediterranean with the chiefs of NATO's southern command.

On Tuesday, he called top U.S. diplomats from 13 Mediterranean countries together for a conference on the problems of Europe and the Middle East.

The meeting focused on the future of the Middle East in light of the death Monday of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. Nixon also was expected to discuss potential solutions to the persistent Middle East crisis in his talks today with President Tito of Yugoslavia.

Nixon indicated before meeting with the diplomats that he believes problems in the eastern Mediterranean are more touchy than ever, and White House officials said Nixon's five-nation European tour has taken on even greater importance because of Nasser's death.

Agnew Compares Campaign Tactics With Truman's

MINOT, N.D. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew says he is carrying on the Harry S. Truman tradition of "give 'em hell" campaigning—"I'm crisscrossing this nation telling the truth and they still think it's hell."

The Republican vice president invoked the name — and noted political characteristic—of the former Democratic president in a speech Tuesday night to a GOP rally after noting that Truman had spoken in Minot exactly 18 years before.

The vice president bore down heavily on the Vietnam issue in a speech dotted with references to cut and run before the South Vietnamese can adjust to defend themselves, South Vietnam would fall," leading to the murder of hundreds of thousands of Vietnamese and affecting the fate of at least six other nations. He did not specify the countries he had in mind.

"The best way to forestall such a calamity," he said, "is to elect Republican Rep. Thomas Kleppe in place of Democratic Sen. Quentin Burdick this November."

The race is considered close with some local observers believing the GOP candidate has cut considerably into Burdick's early lead.

A crowd of close to 5,000 heard Agnew's speech, applauding frequently. The only sign of a group of young people in the dissent was a banner held up by balcony at the start of the speech proclaiming, "We're not impressed."

Earlier, Agnew spoke to several hundred Republicans at a $50-per-couple reception and predicted that in November "we're going to score the biggest upset in an off-year election that this country has ever seen and part of it is going to be in North Dakota."

After taping a television interview here today, Agnew's schedule called for him to fly to Salt Lake City where he speaks tonight for Rep. Laurence Burton running against Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss in another tight Senate contest.

The vice president flew here from Sioux Falls, S.D., where he assailed the report of the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest. He called its contention that President Nixon bears the responsibility for ending student disruptions "scapegoating" of the most irresponsible sort.

Saxbe On Losing Side In Senate Vote

Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, did not vote but was announced as favoring closure.

TEMPORARY PRESIDENT of Egypt and the United Arab Republic is Anwar El Sadat, 52, who was vice president under the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser (right), dead of a heart attack at 52. Porno Panel Still Believes Laws Should Be Repealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discounting fears that pornography corrupts either individual Americans or the nation's moral climate, a divided Presidential Commission on Pornography has called for repeal of most U.S. adult censorship laws.

The commission's report recommends state laws against exposing children to smut or putting it on public display — but no ban on written erotica in either case—and a mass sex education program partly to blunt the public's taste for perverted sex information.

The final report was kept under wraps for release this afternoon but a two-week-old copy still subject to revision was obtained by The Associated Press.

The finding that pornography does not cause sex crimes is modified, apparently at least in part because of statistics showing an increase in rape arrests since an increase in erotica in the United States.

But the report still says extensive investigation has "found no evidence to date that exposure to explicit sexual material plays a significant role in the causation of delinquent or criminal behavior among youth or adults."

And it says he powerful influences in the current flux in U.S. sexual values include ready availability of contraceptives, the changing American woman's role, increased education and mobility—not the increase in pornography.

Three dissenting commissioners accused the commission majority of manipulating evidence and proposing moral anarchy. They recommended stiffer anti-obscenity laws, prosecuting divisions in the Justice Department and state film censorship boards like Maryland's.

The recommendation for repeal of all 114 federal and state laws against importing, showing or selling erotica to adults was approved by 12 of the 15 commissioners.

They said censorship laws are so vague they are unevenly enforced and sometimes used against legitimate material and are rendered ineffective by a lack of public support.

Ohio Flood Control Projects Supported

Leaders Gather For Nasser Rites

CAIRO (AP) — Kings and presidents are gathering in Cairo for Gamal Abdel Nasser's state funeral Thursday, but the fallen Egyptian president's cortege will belong to the people.

The government requisitioned Cairo's major hotels to house the dignitaries, who began arriving Tuesday night. Millions of Nasser's subjects also poured into the city and its suburb, Kubbah, where his body lay in state in the presidential palace and will be buried in a public mosque.

Cairo Radio said the funeral procession will begin at the old revolutionary headquarters on Gezira Island in the Nile River and will end at the mosque, five miles from Kubbah Palace.

The high-ranking foreigners—the United States will be represented by a five-man delegation headed by Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Elliot Richardson—will march across Kasr el Nil Bridge into Cairo, through Liberation Square and onto the premises of the Arab Socialist Union, by Nasser's decree the only political party in Egypt.

There the heads of state and official representatives will withdraw, and the mourning Arab multitudes will take the procession through areas which Nasser had developed early in his reign to symbolize change in Egyptian life.

Burial will be at Manshiet el Bakary Mosque, built with public donations two years ago. Nasser himself contributed to the project.

Open Fight On Clothing Poor Children

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is locked in battle with an organization of welfare mothers over a new regulation limiting federal education aid to clothe poor children.

The militant National Welfare Rights Organization — NWRO — has appealed directly to Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson for more clothing aid. He promised to answer early next week.

At issue is a Sept. 15 Office of Education directive freezing at a last year's level — three-tenths of one per cent of the total — clothing allowances from the $1.5 billion elementary school aid fund.

Most of the 16,500 school districts receiving aid for disadvantaged school children do not use any of the so-called Title I money for clothing programs. The new order, in effect, prohibits them from starting.

The freeze comes at a time when local NWRO chapters are pressing Title I districts without clothing provisions to include them.

Cancer Drive Successful

Family Doctors End Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A nationwide campaign to spot cancer early in women has prolonged—in many cases saved—nearly 3,600 lives, the American Academy of General Practice has been told.

Family doctors examined around one million women for cancer of the cervix between 1965 and May 1970, said Dr. Louis Bush, a general practitioner from Baldwin, N.Y., who is chairman of the academy's cancer committee.

He reported his findings Tuesday to the annual convention of the academy, which is in the process of changing its name to the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Bush said cancer of the cervix, or neck of the womb, is the second leading cause of cancerous death among American women. Detected early, cervical cancer can be controlled in many cases, but because of tardy diagnosis some 10,000 will die from it this year, he said.

The tool of the five-year campaign was the Pap test, in which a smear is taken from the cervix, and a stain and microscopic examination discloses abnormalities in cells. A biopsy of actual tissue then can confirm whether cancer is present.

Until recently, Bush reported, many family doctors and far more of their patients remained unconvinced that this quick and simple procedure was reliable. The five-year project clearly establishes the Pap test as a reliable tool of cancer control, he said.

In 1963, when a Public Health Service survey showed that only 15 per cent of American women over 30 had ever had a Pap test, the academy obtained a PHS grant and launched a campaign to promote it among its 31,600 members.

Jordan's Army Firing Again Guerrillas Say

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Palestine guerrillas charged that Jordan's army broke the uneasy truce today by shelling two towns in the northern part of the country.

A statement broadcast over Damascus radio said Irbin, 50 miles north of Amman, and Ramtha 10 miles to the east, came under artillery fire and "the roar of the explosions can be clearly heard from the Syrian border."

The guerrillas charged the bombardment was "an open violation" of the truce agreement reached in Cairo Sunday between King Hussein and the Palestinian leader, Yasser Arafat.

The Palestinian charge came after an Arab committee named to supervise a settlement of Jordan's 11-day civil war announced in Amman that fighting had ended and calm prevailed throughout the kingdom.

In another sector of the stormy Middle East, Israel has declared its willingness to extend the cease-fire with Egypt. Israel's foreign minister, Abba Eban, said Tuesday his government is prepared for an open-ended extension of the 90-day cease-fire with Egypt, provided the impetus for reopening peace talks comes from Cairo.

Meanwhile, the United States was expected to appeal to Israel, Jordan and Egypt to carry on the Middle East peace talks, suspended Sept. 6 after El Aviv charged Cairo with moving Soviet missiles into a standoff zone along the Suez Canal.

Diplomatic sources said U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost would make the appeal in a policy address today before the U.N. General Assembly.

The Israeli foreign minister, addressing a U.N. correspondents' luncheon, declared: "Israel will not open fire simply because a certain date has been reached. The initiative for creating the conditions for reopening the talks must come from Cairo."

Israel has said the missiles must be removed for it to resume the negotiations. Eban declined to say what effect the death of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser might have on the negotiations, which had been taking place through U.N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring.

At the United Nations, Egypt's ambassador said that when he arrived to enter the peace talks Nasser told him to seek justice, not revenge.

Mohamed Hassan el Zayyat has said that the missiles might be moved back to their original positions if his government received guarantees against an Israeli attack. Eban replied that this was questionable since El-Zayyat "gave no indication whether he was going to do anything at all to meet the complaint."

'Brownouts' Bring Probe Of Nation's Electric Systems

Editor's Note: Last week's four-day 15-state "brownout" has generated doubts about America's electric power system. In this in-depth report a member of the AP Special Assignment Team reconstructs the events of last week and delves into the reasons for the nation's persistent power shortages.

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The widespread power shortage on the eastern seaboard last week has left federal officials fretting over the reliability of the nation's electric power system.

Massive generator failures combined with maintenance shutdowns brought the four-day "brownout" affecting 15 states.

It also brought a new Federal Power Commission investigation of utility firms' practices in scheduling and coordinating generator maintenance. And it prompted questions about the industry's quality control procedures.

The generator failures "suggest that one of our big problems is the quality control on equipment like that," said S. David Freeman, director of the energy policy staff of the White House office of science and technology. Then Freeman added: "In my mind, the story of last week is the story of the blackout that didn't happen. By and large it's a success story."

Last week's brownout was the nation's eighth significant power shortage of the summer. Northeastern states were hit hardest and most often, but shortages were felt at times during the summer as far west as Wisconsin.

It could have been worse. "I think we were lucky we had a relatively mild summer," said an official of the Office of Emergency Planning.

The OEP had warned in May of possible power shortages. Reserves of 15 to 20 per cent are considered adequate but the agency found the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland complex had reserves of only 9 per cent, the Carolinas and Virginia 6.5 per cent and Commonwealth Edison in Chicago 5.50 per cent.

The 12-company Pennsylvania-Jersey-Maryland (PJM) combine ran out of power in May when a hot spell hit while some generators were undergoing periodic maintenance.

And when the sun rose in a cloudless sky over the Eastern seaboard last Tuesday, giving birth to an unusual September heat wave, PJM again was caught without a sizeable share of its generating capacity.

In addition to generators which had been undergoing maintenance since early in the month, explosion, fire, leaks, faulty valves and trouble with coal clinkers had knocked out seven others in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Early in the day steam pressure collapsed on one generator, the turbines failed on another. A faulty pump feeding the boiler forced a third to operate at reduced capacity. By 10:15 a.m., the temperature was rising to ward the mid-90s, air conditioners were humming all over the Eastern megapolis and utilities were reaching into Illinois and Ontario for power. It wasn't enough. Power was reduced by 3 per cent. Six minutes later it was reduced by another 2 per cent.

By 2:30 p.m. the heat wave was fierce. The big $20-megawatt No. 2 generator at the Keystone power station near Johnstown, Pa., broke down. At that point, PJM was encountering its heaviest demands of the summer with nearly a third of its generating capacity

Defense Bill Gets Final Consideration

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise $19.9-billion military purchasing bill, including funds for two more Safeguard antimissile sites and authority for unlimited aid to Israel, is headed for final consideration in the Senate.

The bill, which came out to a Senate-House conference last week, was approved 341 to 11 by the House Tuesday.

It is expected to win final approval in the Senate by week's end, despite a fight by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., who claims the conference butchered money-saving features of the measure.

Proxmire, a frequent critic of waste in military spending, concedes there is little chance the Senate will restore restrictions struck by the conference. But he suggested some of the savings might be realized by making bigger-than-usual cuts in the pending military appropriations bill.

In separate action Tuesday the Senate approved, 73 to 0, a $1.68 billion military construction bill authorizing new building on military bases in the United States and overseas.

The compromise bill authorizes doubling the number of ABM sites and approves unlimited arms credit for Israel.

But essentially, the bill is the Pentagon's shopping list for new arms and hardware. The Senate version called for spending $19.2 billion, a 6.7 per cent reduction of President Nixon's $20.6 billion budget request.

Firemen Win Long Struggle In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fire fighters aided by cool, moist weather drew tighter lines around burning brush and timber tracts today and California's worst ever blazes appeared near an end.

Shortly before dark Tuesday the last of the 147-mile perimeter of the Malibu-Chatsworth-Simi blazes northwest of downtown Los Angeles was surrounded. Near San Diego, officials said a 200,000-acre fire was largely contained.

Still burning were an 18,000-acre blaze in Sequoia National Forest near Bakersfield and a 32,500-acre brush and timber fire nearby.

A 12,000-acre brush fire burned in Cuyamaca State Park in San Diego County.

Firemen continued to fight an 8,600-acre blaze in San Bernardino County, where a 21-year-old man was booked for investigation of the misdemeanor charge of setting off firecrackers in a fire hazard area.

"The weather made all the difference," a spokesman for the Los Angeles County fire department said. "We didn't have the hot winds for the past two days and there was a marked increase in humidity."

Hot winds blasting from the desert at up to 60 miles an hour gave rise to the outbreak.

Officials said some of the fires may have been spontaneous, but during the next four days hundreds popped up throughout Southern California and some of these were blamed on arsonists.

Porno Panel Still Believes Laws Should Be Repealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Discounting fears that pornography corrupts either individual Americans or the nation's moral climate, a divided Presidential Commission on Pornography has called for repeal of most U.S. adult censorship laws.

The commission's report recommends state laws against exposing children to smut or putting it on public display — but no ban on written "rotica in either case — and a mass sex education program partly to blunt the public's taste for perversely sex information.

The final report was kept under wraps for release this afternoon but a two-week-old copy still subject to revision was obtained by The Associated Press.

The finding that pornography does not cause sex crimes is modified, apparently at least in part because of statistics showing an increase in rape arrests since an increase in erotica in the United States.

But the report still says extensive investigation has "found no evidence to date that exposure to explicit sexual material plays a significant role in the causation of delinquent or criminal behavior among youth or adults."

And it says he powerful influences in the current flux in U.S. sexual values include ready availability of contraceptives, the changing American woman's role, increased education and mobility — not the increase in pornography.

Three dissenting commissioners accused the commission majority of manipulating evidence and proposing moral anarchy. They recommended stiffer anti-obscenity laws, prosecuting divisions in the Justice Department and state film censorship boards like Maryland's.

The recommendation for repeal of all 114 federal and state laws against importing, showing or selling erotica to adults was approved by 12 of the 15 commissioners.

They said censorship laws are so vague they are unevenly enforced and sometimes used against legitimate material and are rendered ineffective by a lack of public support.

Cancer Drive Successful

Family Doctors End Campaign

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A nationwide campaign to spot cancer early in women has prolonged — in many cases saved — nearly 3,600 lives, the American Academy of General Practice has been told.

Family doctors examined around one million women for cancer of the cervix between 1965 and May 1970, said Dr. Louis Bush, a general practitioner from Baldwin, N.Y., who is chairman of the academy's cancer committee.

He reported his findings Tuesday to the annual convention of the academy, which is in the process of changing its name to the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Bush said cancer of the cervix, or neck of the womb, is the second leading cause of cancerous death among American women. Detected early, cervical cancer can be controlled in many cases, but because of tardy diagnosis some 10,000 will die from it this year, he said.

The tool of the five-year campaign was the Pap test, in which a smear is taken from the cervix, and a stain and microscopic examination discloses abnormalities in cells. A biopsy of actual tissue then can confirm whether cancer is present.

Until recently, Bush reported, many family doctors and far more of their patients remained unconvinced that this quick and simple procedure was reliable. The five-year project clearly establishes the Pap test as a reliable tool of cancer control, he said.

In 1963, when a Public Health Service survey showed that only 15 per cent of American women over 30 had ever had a Pap test, the academy obtained a PHS grant and launched a campaign to promote it among its 31,600 members.

Open Fight On Clothing Poor Children

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is locked in battle with an organization of welfare mothers over a new regulation limiting federal education aid to clothe poor children.

The militant National Welfare Rights Organization — NWRO — has appealed directly to Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson for more clothing aid. He promised to answer early next week.

At issue is a Sept. 15 Office of Education directive freezing at a last year's level — three-tenths of one per cent of the total — clothing allowances from the $1.5 billion elementary school aid fund.

Most of the 16,500 school districts receiving aid for disadvantaged school children do not use any of the so-called Title I money for clothing programs. The new order, in effect, prohibits them from starting.

The freeze comes at a time when local NWRO chapters are pressing Title I districts without clothing provisions to include them.

'Brownouts' Bring Probe Of Nation's Electric Systems

Editor's Note: Last week's four-day 15-state "brownout" has generated doubts about America's electric power system. In this in-depth report a member of the AP Special Assignment Team reconstructs the events of last week and delves into the reasons for the nation's persistent power shortages.

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The widespread power shortage on the eastern seaboard last week has left federal officials fretting over the reliability of the nation's electric power system.

Massive generator failures combined with maintenance shutdowns brought the four-day "brownout" affecting 15 states.

It also brought a new Federal Power Commission investigation of utility firms' practices in scheduling and coordinating generator maintenance. And it prompted questions about the industry's quality control procedures.

The generator failures "suggest that one of our big problems is the quality control on equipment like that," said S. David Freeman, director of the energy policy staff of the White House office of science and technology. Then Freeman added: "In my mind, the story of last week is the story of the blackout that didn't happen. By and large it's a success story."

Last week's brownout was the nation's eighth significant power shortage of the summer. Northeastern states were hit hardest and most often, but shortages were felt at times during the summer as far west as Wisconsin.

It could have been worse. "I think we were lucky we had a relatively mild summer," said an official of the Office of Emergency Planning.

The OEP had warned in May of possible power shortages. Reserves of 15 to 20 per cent are considered adequate but the agency found the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland complex had reserves of only 9 per cent, the Carolinas and Virginia 6.5 per cent and Commonwealth Edison in Chicago 5.50 per cent.

The 12-company Pennsylvania-Jersey-Maryland (PJM) combine ran out of power in May when a hot spell hit while some generators were undergoing periodic maintenance.

And when the sun rose in a cloudless sky over the Eastern seaboard last Tuesday, giving birth to an unusual September heat wave, PJM again was caught without a sizeable share of its generating capacity.

In addition to generators which had been undergoing maintenance since early in the month, explosion, fire, leaks, faulty valves and trouble with coal clinkers had knocked out seven others in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Early in the day steam pressure collapsed on one generator, the turbines failed on another. A faulty pump feeding the boiler forced a third to operate at reduced capacity. By 10:15 a.m., the temperature was rising to ward the mid-90s, air conditioners were humming all over the Eastern megapolis and utilities were reaching into Illinois and Ontario for power. It wasn't enough. Power was reduced by 3 per cent. Six minutes later it was reduced by another 2 per cent.

By 2:30 p.m. the heat wave was fierce. The big 820-megawatt No. 2 generator at the Keystone power station near Johnstown, Pa., broke down.

At that point, PJM was encountering its heaviest demands of the summer with nearly a third of its generating capacity

Four Injured, Two Cited In Three County Accidents

A car-truck accident on Route 23 seriously injured one man and three more people were hurt in two other mishaps in Pickaway County, Tuesday night.

Russell Parsons, 42, Columbus, suffered multiple injuries to the face and body when his auto ran into the rear of a truck at 10:20 p.m. on Route 23 just north of DuPont Road.

The truck driver, Jerry M. Green, 28, New Boston, told Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff he had stopped for the light and was just starting up when he felt a jolt and saw the Parsons vehicle ram the rear of the carrier. Parsons was pinned in the wreckage until help arrived.

Parsons was taken to Berger Hospital and transferred to Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

SHERIFF Radcliff cited Parsons for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead.

A one-vehicle accident at 7:45 p.m. brought injury to Danny Mahoney, 16, Laurelville, who was a passenger in a truck driven by Neola Fogler, 43, Laurelville.

The truck was traveling southeast on Route 56 near the Tilton-Adelphi Road when a car stopped in front, causing the truck to leave the road and hit an embankment.

Deputy John Bost referred Mahoney to the doctor for treatment of head abrasions.

Deputy Bost also investigated a two-car mishap at 11:30 p.m. at the intersection of the Circleville - Kingston and Circleville - Tilton Roads.

Both drivers, Earl R. Hildenbrand, 33, Route 1, and John R. Stewart, 23, Jackson, were injured in the accident.

According to Bost's report, Stewart had stopped for the stop sign on the Circleville - Tilton road and then pulled into the path of Hildenbrand's auto which was northbound on the Circleville - Kingston Road.

Both men were treated at Berger Hospital. Hildenbrand had lacerations of the face and mouth, fractured ribs and abrasions of both knees. Stewart suffered abrasions and contusions of the head.

Stewart was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Kirk Wins Primary Race In Florida

MIAMI (AP) — Claude Kirk, Florida's first Republican governor in nearly a century, has won re-election over drug store magnate Jack Eckerd in a runoff primary election.

Final unofficial results from Tuesday's balloting gave Kirk 195,863 votes to 149,191 for the Clearwater millionaire.

In the November general election, Kirk meets state Sen. Rabin Askew of Pensacola, who upset Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth for the Democratic nomination on a platform promising a corporate income tax and tax relief for the average citizen.

Askew received 439,292 votes to Faircloth's 321,729. State Sen. Lawton Chiles, who walked more than 1,000 miles in a unique campaign, scored a 2-1 upset victory over former Gov. Farris Bryant for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

Chiles amassed 463,198 votes to Bryant's 241,905.

Chiles said he would take to the road again in his general election battle with Rep. William C. Cramer, who won Republican nomination in the first primary Sept. 9 over former Judge G. Harold Carswell.

Fitzsimmons Hammers Politicians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, leader of the 2 million-member Teamsters Union, says politicians seem "glad the nation is in financial trouble because they can use it to perpetuate another cheap political trick."

Addressing some 500 delegates to the International Chemical Workers Union convention here Tuesday, Fitzsimmons said politicians were ignoring inflation, pollution and war.

"They insult us as if we were idiots and just got out of the cellar," he said. "They think they can exist without the working man."

"The roar of the rank and file must be felt at the ballot box," said the general vice president of the nation's largest union.

He also urged an end to the seniority system in congress. He said it rewards the aged and senile and stifles young leaders.

Fitzsimmons asked delegates if they had ever met a politician who advocated raising the minimum wage from the current $1.60 an hour. "When we find such a politician, the Teamsters will want to support him," he said.

Case Again Continued In Kidnap Try

A Westerville man, charged in the Jan. 25 abduction attempt of a young secretary on Route 23 was scheduled to appear in court session today.

Robert Conley was arrested the first of this year and charged with kidnapping Beverly Ann McDade, 23, Idmnet. He was brought against him by the April 6 session of Pickaway County Grand Jury.

In a pre-hearing session of Common Pleas Judge William Ammer, County Prosecutor Roy H. Huffer and Conley's attorney, Joe Hans of Columbus, it was apparently decided to have the alleged abductor appear before a jury. A trial date was set for Dec. 3 and 4.

In other cases before the court, 28-year-old William D. Boyse appeared on a charge of felonious assault on a minor to which he had earlier entered a plea of guilty. Sentencing was postponed for psychiatric examination.

Upon the recommendation of the doctors, Boyse was placed on strict probation for three years and ordered to report twice monthly to the probation office.

In four cases that were scheduled Tuesday afternoon in the court, Rodney Candill, 23, Columbus, and Robert Reese, refused to waive their rights and requested their cases be heard by the January grand jury.

Candill is being held for the shooting spree Sept. 12 at Tootie's Pumpkin Inn. Reese is charged with concealing stolen property.

Charles Kuhn, charged with grand larceny, admitted to the theft and had his case continued until a presentence report of his past record can be made.

Electoral Reform Measure All But Dead In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has all but killed for this session of Congress a proposal for direct election of the president.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a leader of the opposition, pronounced the measure dead after the failure Tuesday of a second effort to shut off debate and force the proposal to a vote.

But Indiana Democrat Birch

Bayh, chief sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment, said he still has hopes of winning the two-thirds majority necessary to put the Senate's debate-closing rule into effect.

In effect, the electoral reform issue will be allowed to simmer for a while. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, said it will still be before the Senate but other measures will be taken up from day to day.

Bayh did not object when Mansfield moved immediately after the rejection of the cloture move to bring up a military construction bill, saying he no longer would try to block action on their legislation.

But in talking with newsmen later, Bayh said he intends to try to get another vote on cloture — perhaps more than one — before the middle of October when the Senate is scheduled to adjourn or recess for the November elections.

Ervin said the votes already taken showed more than a third of the Senate is opposed to the direct election amendment. "We've had a lot of hokum about this thing," he said, "but this isn't the right solution."

Ervin pledged to devote a major effort in the next Congress to bringing about "genuine reform" in the presidential election system.

The vote on cutting off debate was 53 for and 34 against, or five short of the necessary two-thirds majority. Thirty-four Democrats and 19 Republicans voted for cloture. Against were 15 Democrats and 19 Republicans.

A first attempt on Sept. 17 to put the cloture rule into effect fell six votes short, with 54 for and 36 against.

The proposed amendment, approved by the House a year ago and endorsed by President Nixon, would abolish the electoral college system and provide that a Presidential candidate who got 40 per cent or more of the popular vote nationwide would be elected.

If no candidate received 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff election would be held between the two front-runners.

gone. Its neighbors, meanwhile, had troubles, too.

New York had been limping along all summer and could hardly provide much help. It sent some power to PJM but had to cut its voltage. In Virginia and the Carolinas generators knocked out or idled for maintenance forced cutbacks there.

The crisis lasted another day, then began easing as damaged generators were repaired and the heat slackened. But questions remained. Why did it happen? Why is the nation faced with persistent power shortages?

Officials at the Federal Power Commission pulled out elaborate charts to show how utilities plan a year ahead with monthly reviews, to perform preventive maintenance on generators. Reserves are so small that all the work must be squeezed around the summer to get it done, said Cleve R. Jacobsen, chief of the FPC's section of interconnection and coordination.

Such long-range planning precludes last minute changes for unexpected developments in the weather. Even so, the FPC said in a staff report to Chairman John N. Naiskas during the brownout: "We are investigating further your request to review the maintenance schedules in each affected power pool and the coordination of scheduled maintenance between pools."

Freeman, of the White House office, in discussing quality control, said both manufacturers and utilities are lax.

Utility spokesmen, meanwhile criticized the equipment furnished them by manufacturers.

And Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont. a persistent critic of the electric power industry complained that investor-owned utilities spent eight times as much on advertising in 1968 as they did on research and development.

Advertising has also been an issue in the larger debate over the availability of electricity. Faced with short supplies, many utilities ceased vigorous promotion of air conditioning after the average annual sale of window air conditioners doubled over six years, powering a tripling of the average annual household bill.

bus, suffered multiple injuries to the face and body when his auto ran into the rear of a truck at 10:20 p.m. on Route 23 just north of DuPont Road.

The truck driver, Jerry M. Green, 28, New Boston, told Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff he had stopped for the light and was just starting up when he felt a jolt and saw the Parsons vehicle ram the rear of the carrier. Parsons was pinned in the wreckage until help arrived.

Parsons was taken to Berger Hospital and transferred to Riverside Hospital, Columbus.

SHERIFF Radcliff cited Parsons for failure to maintain assured clear distance ahead. A one-vehicle accident at 7:45 p.m. brought injury to Danny Mahoney, 16, Laurelville, who was a passenger in a truck driven by Neola Fogler, 43, Laurelville.

The truck was traveling southeast on Route 56 near the Tilton-Adelphi Road when a car stopped in front, causing the truck to leave the road and hit an embankment.

Deputy John Bost referred Mahoney to the doctor for treatment of head abrasions.

Deputy Bost also investigated a two-car mishap at 11:30 p.m. at the intersection of the Circleville - Kingston and Circleville - Tilton Roads.

Both drivers, Earl R. Hildenbrand, 33, Route 1, and John R. Stewart, 23, Jackson, were injured in the accident.

ACCORDING to Bost's report, Stewart had stopped for the stop sign on the Circleville - Tilton road and then pulled into the path of Hildenbrand's auto which was northbound on the Circleville - Kingston Road.

Both men were treated at Berger Hospital. Hildenbrand had lacerations of the face and mouth, fractured ribs and abrasions of both knees. Stewart suffered abrasions and contusions of the head.

Stewart was cited for failure to yield the right of way.

Kirk Wins Primary Race In Florida

MIAMI (AP) — Claude Kirk, Florida's first Republican governor in nearly a century, has won re-election over drug store magnet Jack Eckerd in a runoff primary election.

In the November general election, Kirk meets Sen. Reubin Askew of Pensacola, who upset Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth for the Democratic nomination on a platform promising a corporate income tax and tax relief for the average citizen.

Askew received 439,292 votes to Faircloth's 321,729.

State Sen. Lawton Chiles, who walked more than 1,000 miles in a unique campaign, scored a 2-1 upset victory over former Gov. Farris Bryant for the Democratic U.S. Senate nomination.

Chiles amassed 463,108 votes to Bryant's 241,905. Chiles said he would take to the road again with Rep. William C. Cramer, who won Republican nomination in the first primary Sept. 9 over former Judge G. Harold Carswell.

Fitzsimmons Chambers Politicians

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, leader of the 2 million-member Teamsters Union, says politicians seem "glad the nation is in financial trouble because they can use it to perpetuate another cheap political trick."

Addressing some 500 delegates to the International Chemical Workers Union convention here Tuesday, Fitzsimmons said politicians were ignoring inflation, pollution and war. "They insult us as if we were idiots and just got out of the cellar," he said. "They think they can exist without the working man."

"The roar of the rank and file must be felt at the ballot box," said the general vice president of the nation's largest union.

He also urged an end to the seniority system in congress. He said it rewards the aged and senile and stifles young leaders. Fitzsimmons asked delegates if they had ever met a politician who advocated raising the minimum wage from the current $1.60 an hour. "When we find such a politician, the Teamsters will want to support him," he said.

Case Again Continued In Kidnap Try

A Westerville man, charged in the Jan. 25 abduction attempt of a young secretary on Route 23 was scheduled to appear in court session today.

Robert Conley was arrested the first of this year and charged with kidnapping Beverly Ann McDade, 23. Indictment was brought against him by the April 6 session of Pickaway County Grand Jury.

In a pre-hearing session of Common Pleas Judge William Ammer, County Prosecutor Roy H. Huffer and Conley's attorney, Joe Hans of Columbus, it was apparently decided to have the alleged abductor appear before a jury. A trial date was set for Dec. 3 and 4.

In other cases before the court, 28-year-old William D. Boyssel appeared on a charge of felonious assault on a minor to which he had earlier entered a plea of guilty. Sentencing was postponed for psychiatric examination.

Upon the recommendation of the doctors, Boyssel was placed on strict probation for three years and ordered to report twice monthly to the probation office.

In four cases that were scheduled Tuesday afternoon in the court, Rodney Caudill, 23, Columbus, and Robert Reese, refused to waive their rights and requested their cases be heard by the January grand jury.

Caudill is being held for the shooting spree Sept. 12 at Tootie's Pumpkin Inn. Reese is charged with concealing stolen property.

Charles Kuhn, charged with grand larceny, admitted to the theft and had his case continued until a presentence report of his past record can be made.

Electoral Reform Measure All But Dead In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has all but killed for this session of Congress a proposal for direct election of the president.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., a leader of the opposition, pronounced the measure dead after the failure Tuesday of a second effort to shut down debate and force the proposal to a vote. But Indiana Democrat Birch

Bayh, chief sponsor of the proposed constitutional amendment, said he still has hopes of winning the two-thirds majority necessary to put the Senate's debate-closing rule into effect.

In effect, the electoral reform issue will be allowed to simmer for a while. Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, said it will still be before the Senate but other measures will be taken up from day to day.

Bayh did not object when Mansfield moved immediately after the rejection of the cloture move to bring up a military construction bill, saying he no longer would try to block action on their legislation.

But in talking with newsmen later, Bayh said he intends to try to get another vote on cloture — perhaps more than one — before the middle of October when the Senate is scheduled to adjourn or recess for the November elections.

Ervin said the votes already taken showed more than a third of the Senate is opposed to the direct election amendment. "We've had a lot of hokum about this thing," he said, "but this isn't the right solution."

Ervin pledged to devote a major effort in the next Congress to bringing about "genuine reform" in the presidential election system.

The vote on cutting off debate was 53 for and 34 against, or five short of the necessary two-thirds majority. Thirty-four Democrats and 19 Republicans voted for cloture. Against were 15 Democrats and 19 Republicans.

A first attempt on Sept. 17 to put the cloture rule into effect fell six votes short, with 54 for and 36 against.

The proposed amendment, approved by the House a year ago and endorsed by President Nixon, would abolish the electoral college system and provide that a Presidential candidate who got 40 per cent or more of the popular vote nationwide would be elected.

If no candidate received 40 per cent of the vote, a runoff election would be held between the two front-runners.

gone. Its neighbors, meanwhile, had troubles, too.

New York had been jimping along all summer and could hardly provide much help. It sent some power to PJM but had to cut its voltage. In Virginia and the Carolinas generators knocked out or idled for maintenance forced cutbacks there.

The crisis lasted another day, then began easing as damaged generators were repaired and the heat slackened. But questions remained. Why did it happen? Why is the nation faced with persistent power shortages?

Officials at the Federal Power Commission pulled out elaborate charts to show how utilities plan a year ahead with monthly reviews, to perform preventive maintenance on generators. Reserves are so small that all the work must be squeezed around the summer to get it done, said Cleve R. Jacobsen, chief of the FPC's section of interconnection and coordination.

Such long-range planning precludes last minute changes for unexpected developments in the weather. Even so, the FPC said in a staff report to Chairman John N. Naiskas during the brownout: "We are investigating further your request to review the maintenance schedules in each affected power pool and the coordination of scheduled maintenance between pools."

Freeman, of the White House office, in discussing quality control, said both manufacturers and utilities are lax.

Utility spokesmen, meanwhile criticized the equipment furnished them by manufacturers.

And Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., a persistent critic of the electric power industry complained that investor-owned utilities spent eight times as much on advertising in 1968 as they did on research and development.

Advertising has also been an issue in the larger debate over the availability of electricity. Faced with short supplies, many utilities engaged vigorous promotion of air conditioning after the average annual sale of window air conditioners doubled over six years, powering a tripling of the average annual household bill.

NEW YORK (AP) — Things that make life worth living: Opening the door to greet a loved one coming home to stay for a good long spell.

Catching a big one in the lake where the big ones were all supposed to have been caught early in the season.

The taste and feel of salt spray on your face as you hold the tiller of a small sailboat laboring through white-capped waters.

Chasing a small snake through tall grass and feeling secretly glad when it makes its escape, because then you don't have to kill it and carry it home still wriggling on a stick.

Being informed by a kindly teacher that she won't flunk you after all, even though you turned in your term paper three days late.

Building a tree house in the backyard and staying in it until the stars came out, gleaming on a vast kingdom you imagine as your own.

Getting the first love letter from your best girl in which she finally signed it "love, Rosalie," instead of "as ever, Rosalie."

The wild orgy of a fresh watermelon eating spree in the fields of Sicily after two weeks of eating nothing but Army combat rations.

Drawing an inside straight — and making it — in a poker game with $50 in the pot.

The sound of your own name read aloud by the principal as you walk up to get your high school diploma. You have to fight down a mad desire to wave the diploma aloft and shout, "Hurrah for me!"

The sight of a tawny harvest moon, gilding a field stacked with cornstalks that glimmer like the ragged ghosts of a forgotten army.

Buying $2 worth of fading roses in the subway to make up with your own true love after your first big quarrel.

Deciding, after seeing your first-born child in the hospital maternity ward, that you'll keep it no matter what the neighbors may think of it.

Throwing a tremulous kiss, misty-eyed, to the Statue of Liberty as you view that green goddess from shipboard on returning safe from a long hot war.

Saying a prayer you know in your heart you have no right to make, and getting a favorable response you know you don't deserve.

Try and Stop Me

A CALIPH, who had recently purchased what he considered the latest thing in flying carpets, was brought down to earth by the remarks of two of his subjects who happened to see him flying overhead. "Can you beat that," said one. "I hope he doesn't," said the other. "Not with all this air pollution."

A dress salesman was ordered out to the Kansas wheat belt during a blistering heat wave, instructed to sell retailers there those unattractive mid-length dresses whether they liked them or not. "Gee whiz, boss," he protested, "what's the idea of making me fly there in weather like this? I looked at a map and there isn't a lake or a stream within a hundred miles of a single town in the itinerary."

"In that case," conceded the boss sympathetically, "don't take a canoe with you."

During each of my three pregnancies I have had severe heartburn which disappears immediately when the baby is born. Everyone says it's strictly in my mind, but I have two friends who have exactly the same thing. Will you explain this?

Dear Mrs. H.: It is interesting that you should make this keen medical observation yourself. Obstetricians have found that more than half of their patients complain of a burning sensation in the throat and in the chest.

Almost invariably this continues, as you have observed, until the baby is born and then immediately disappears.

Strangely, this type of heartburn does not respond to antacids as readily as the heartburn of dietary indiscretion that occurs to most of us.

The exact reason why heartburn occurs so frequently during pregnancy is an involved scientific one. Psychological factors are not the answer although they play some role in the person's ability to tolerate it.

When the gall bladder is surgically removed, what takes its place? Is it like the appendix which no longer serves a purpose in the human?

Mr. J.N., New Jersey
Dear Mr. N.: Unlike the appendix, the gall bladder is a functioning organ. It is a small sac, shaped like a pear, and lies beneath the liver in the upper right-hand part of the abdomen.

Bile, which is produced in the liver, is one of the most important factors in the digestion of foods, especially fatty ones. The gall bladder acts as a small storage space for bile, distributing it as it is needed and passing it directly into the intestine by way of a tube called the "common bile duct."

When the gall bladder develops stones or is the seat of chronic inflammation, surgery may be necessary. When it is removed, bile passes directly from the liver to the intestine, and continues to perform its important task of the digestion of food.

It may well be that thousands of years from now, the gall bladder, like the appendix, may become an organ which is dispensable.

Is there any danger to giving booster shots and inoculations during the summer months or when a child has any infection?

Soviets Mean To Take Suez

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Nixon wants to see the Arabs and the Israelis agree on a workable peace for the Middle East, with security all around whether it is attained through a redrawing of strategic boundaries or by the signing of pacts that include automatic sanctions. But the Soviets want the Suez Canal. And, since the Communists never really compromise when they negotiate, we are left with the cold choice between continued conflict and a "peace" that would deliver half the world into the hands of an implacable enemy.

What the Soviets intend to get is spelled out in the blurry Aesopian language that they habitually use when posing their strategic aims. Moscow, as the Israelis point out in their own official analysis of the Supreme Soviet statement, "is not merely engaging in a policy of support and aid for Egypt." The Israelis are clear-eyed about the ultimate Soviet desire to throw the West out of the Middle East and to replace it with a formidable Communist naval power "capable of free movement around the Arabian Peninsula through the Suez Canal." Such is the Israeli deduction from a paragraph in the Supreme Soviet statement that reads:

"Israeli aggression in the Middle East, supported by neocolonialist circles, is aimed not only against the Arab states. What happens in that area, at the junction of the Asian and African continents, has a direct bearing on the destinies of the peoples of all the countries of Asia and Africa, on the destinies of universal peace, on the security of nations... passiveness in the face of the aggressor would unite the hands of the imperialists for new aggressive actions against other peoples."

As the Israelis say, this places the Israeli-Arab dispute on a global footing. The destinies of all southern Asia and eastern Africa will be decided in favor of the Communists if Israel is cravenly "neutralized" or allowed to go under.

The Soviets, according to the official Israeli "policy background" paper, are willing to "tailor and cosmetize" their tactics to assuage Western fears, but the strategy is not affected thereby. Moscow has been closing in on Suez from two directions. It has connived with the Egyptians to move the SA II and the SA III missiles up to the canal bank despite the terms of the cease-fire agreement. And the Soviet naval presence is made doubly strong in the eastern Mediterranean by the port facilities which Moscow has acquired in Latakia, Syria and Port Said and Alexandria in Egypt. This nails down the approach to Suez from the north.

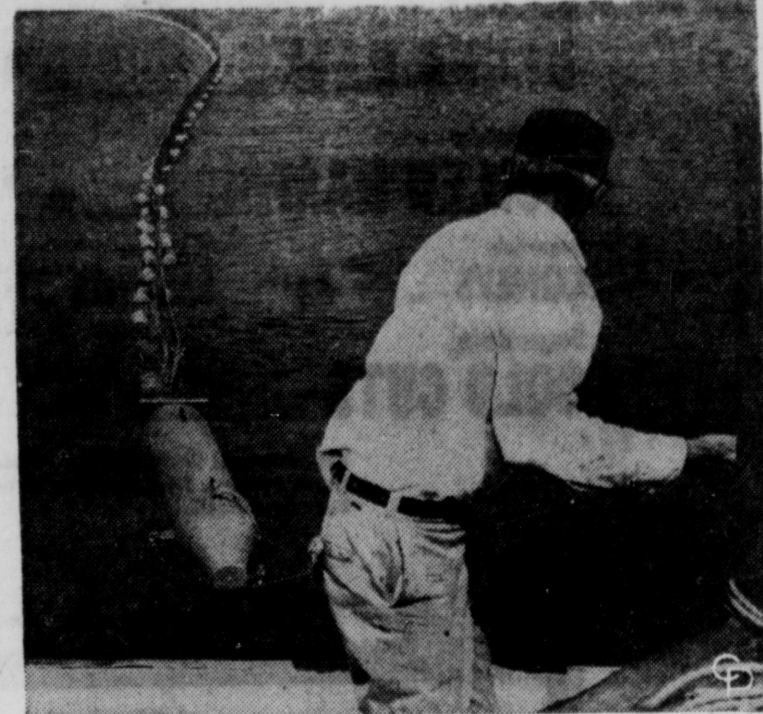

Meanwhile, despite the long

Good Hope, the Soviets have also been establishing their "presence" in Yemen, Aden, Somaliland, Mauritius, Basra, and the Andaman Islands. As Dr. Stefan Possony of the Hoover Institute at Stanford University points out, none of this activity makes sense save on the supposition that the Suez Canal will some day be opened under Russian control. Dr. Possony says "the Suez Canal is the main missing link... If the USSR breaks through at Suez, it would be able to outflank Europe as well as Asia, and it would follow through with major moves in the Far East."

A complicating factor for Moscow is the Red Chinese reaction to the Soviet blueprint. The Maoists have been active in the Fedayeen attempts to overthrow King Hussein in Jordan. According to the Hoover Institute information,

George Habash, the leader of the Palesine Liberation Front, receives $10,000 plus family allowances from Peking each month. Red China has also been moving to counter the Soviets on the Indian Ocean side, southern Arabia has its Maoist guerrillas and there is a real Red Chinese "presence" in Tanzania. However, the Western Communist proximity to Syria and to Jordan and the fact that the Red Chinese lack naval power mean that the Soviets are not seriously menaced by Peking in their take-Suez strategy.

How the U.S., which clings to the hope of a peace that will preserve Israel, as a balancing factor in the Middle East, can pull some brands from the burning is not apparent from anything that Washington is doing. We might as well know and face the worst.

Good Old Days

AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "In our day, stars had it lucky. The studios built our careers with care and bought vehicles or created them especially for us. Today's stars must take what comes to them. And if they make the wrong choices, they're dead."

This was Bette Davis holding forth on the star system, a subject on which she is one of the world's greatest experts. For 15 years she reigned as the dramatic queen of Warner Bros., exacting two Academy Awards and a score of memorable performances.

She was here briefly, en route from her Westport, Conn., home to locations for her new film "Bunny O' Hare" in Albuquerque.

The studio have men who could build sets that are just as good as any location. You can shoot better inside a studio. And cheaper, too."

Bette Davis is not the kind of star to hanker for the "good old days." Ever the realist, she reflects that some of those days were pretty bad, especially when stars could be dictated to by studio bosses. Still, there were distinct advantages to the studio system.

"For all of its abuses, the studio system was pretty damned good for a lot of us," she admitted. "Those old boys knew how to build stars—not create them, because only the public could do that."

"Once a star was established, the studio could provide a continuity of career by providing pictures tailored to his talents. And don't forget those fantastic publicity departments. They could spend a year creating a demand for a certain picture."

"Today there is no area for failure. If an actor doesn't make it in his first big role, he's finished. If Dusty Hoffman hadn't hit big in 'The Graduate,' he would have been out of the business by now."

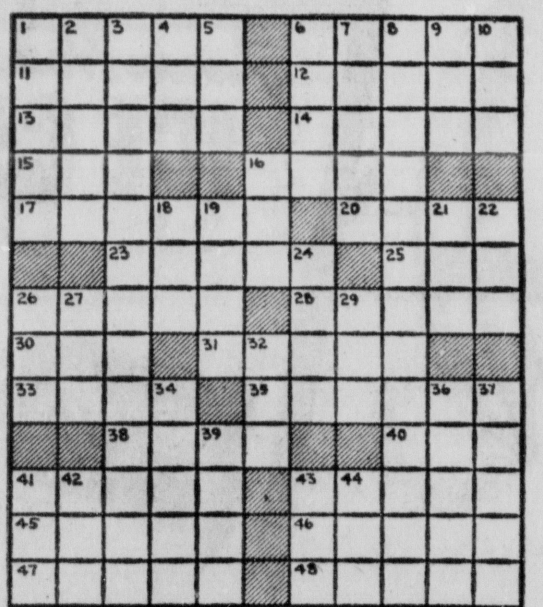

Miss Davis remains as active as she would like to be a picture a year suits her. She could work more often if she accepted the roles offered her—"mostly nutty roles."

On July 4, 1754, Col. George Washington, age 22, surrendered Fort Necessity, near Uniontown, Pennsylvania, to French and Indians after a bitter struggle. The battle of Fort Necessity set off the French and Indian War.

UC President Outlines Policy

CINCINNATI (AP) — University of Cincinnati president Walter Langsam, in a message to 4,000 incoming freshmen, has underscored the school's new policy on campus disruptions.

"Academic freedom will be protected by means of campus resources if possible," he told them Monday at a welcoming convocation. "Should these prove inadequate, then outside resources will be called upon for assistance. Violation of law will lead to prosecution."

Langsam, given broad authority by the policy to act in controlling disturbances, reminded the freshmen that attendance at UC is a "privilege, not a right."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The evidence may be seen in many towns and cities throughout America: overcrowded schools, potholed roads, poor water supplies and otherwise inadequate municipal facilities. State and local governments have had a hard time of it in the financial markets during 1969 and most of 1970. Borrowing costs were up, money was tight. And though the situation has eased lately, the physical evidence remains. Moreover, a good many financial analysts speculate that the situation may become chronic and suggest that new methods of borrowing must be devised for nonfederal governments, perhaps even involving subsidies of some sort. This is the situation that has produced a somewhat shabby appearance in more than a few cities and towns today. Inflation during the late 1960s federal government was forced into action. Stringent monetary policies were put into practice in order to stifle demand that was oversteering the economy. This meant upward pressure on borrowing costs, and that meant that cities and towns were forced to pay steadily increasing yields in order to induce buyers to purchase their bonds. As the prices rose, shocked controllers faced their highest borrowing costs in history. And finally, as bond buyers continued to demand higher inducements, one town after another was forced to delay or postpone projects. Other sections of the bond market apparatus were being hurt also. The profits of underwriters were being shaved thin, and some of them began losing. It was difficult to sell bonds when money rates were higher elsewhere. Investors in tax-exempt municipal bonds now must balance the rewards of tax-exemption against the possibility that sometime during the life of purchase the tax policy might indeed be changed. The total effect of this was devastating to the plans of many cities. With a federal tight money policy in effect, and with some investors frightened away by the question of tax-exemption, there just wasn't enough money available for the most necessary projects in some of the most financially sound municipalities. The question now being argued in financial circles is whether the structure will ever be able to accommodate the borrowing needs of local and state governments. What will the remedy be? Some proposals call for federal subsidies to investors. And some call for subsidies to lenders, so as to permit them to offer more attractive yields. The more optimistic seers still maintain that the market will straighten itself out and that the financing needs of governments will be handled without chronic problems — if inflation is contained. It's a very big "if."

"It still shimmies when I hit eighty."

By BENNETT CER.

A CALIPH, who had recently purchased what he considered the latest thing in flying carpets, was brought down to earth by the remarks of two of his subjects who happened to see him flying overhead. "Can you beat that," said one. "I hope he doesn't," said the other. "Not with all this air pollution."

A dress salesman was ordered out to the Kansas wheat belt during a blistering heat wave, instructed to sell retailers there those unattractive mid-length dresses whether they liked them or not. "Gee whiz, boss," he protested, "what's the idea of making me fly there in weather like this? I looked at a map and there isn't a lake or a stream within a hundred miles of a single town in the itinerary."

"In that case," conceded the boss sympathetically, "don't take a canoe with you."

QUICKIES:
Sid Brodie claims the smog has gotten so thick in L.A. they've had to put windshield wipers on shopping carts.
Tony Pizzaro cites the only difference between an elephant and his mother-in-law. It's about three pounds.
"Just because a fellow has a lot of iron in the fire," Arnie Deutsch reminds us, "doesn't mean he's a business success. Maybe he's just given up golf in disgust."

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

During each of my three pregnancies I have had severe heartburn which disappears immediately when the baby is born. Everyone says it's strictly in my mind, but I have two friends who have exactly the same thing. Will you explain this?

Mrs. O.H.H., Minnesota
Dear Mrs. H.: It is interesting that you should make this keen medical observation yourself. Obstetricians have found that more than half of their patients complain of a burning sensation in the throat and in the chest. Almost invariably this continues, as you have observed, until the baby is born and then immediately disappears.

Strangely, this type of heartburn does not respond to antacids as readily as the heartburn of dietary indiscretion that occurs to most of us.

The exact reason why heartburn occurs so frequently during pregnancy is an involved scientific one. Psychological factors are not the answer although they play some role in the person's ability to tolerate it.

When the gall bladder is surgically removed, what takes its place? Is it like the appendix which no longer serves a purpose in the human?

Mr. J.N., New Jersey
Dear Mr. N.: Unlike the appendix, the gall bladder is a functioning organ. It is a small sac, shaped like a pear, and lies beneath the liver in the upper right-hand part of the abdomen.

Bile, which is produced in the liver, is one of the most important factors in the digestion of foods, especially fatty ones. The gall bladder acts as a small storage space for bile, distributing it as it is needed and passing it directly into the intestine by way of a tube called the "common bile duct."

When the gall bladder develops stones or is the seat of chronic inflammation, surgery may be necessary. When it is removed, bile passes directly from the liver to the intestine, and continues to perform its important task of the digestion of food.

Is there any danger to giving booster shots and inoculations during the summer months or when a child has any infection?

Mrs. T.R.D., Ohio
Dear Mrs. D.: Generally, physicians will not immunize children when they have a cold, or are recovering from other illnesses. The summer time is as good as any for booster shots or inoculations.

Summer colds need as much attention as winter ones. Don't neglect them.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Wednesday, Sept. 30, the 273rd day of 1970. There are 92 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1938, a pact to preserve "peace in our time" was signed in Munich, Germany by Germany's Adolf Hitler, Italy's Benito Mussolini, Britain's Neville Chamberlain and France's Francois Daladier.

On this date: In 1787, a 212-ton ship called Columbia sailed from Boston. It became the first American ship to sail around the world.

In 1846, ether was used for the first time as an anesthetic by a Boston dentist, Dr. William Morton.

In 1882, the first hydroelectric power station in the United States was opened at Appleton, Wis.

In 1923, Britain began to govern Palestine under a mandate from the League of Nations.

In 1946, an international military tribunal in Nuremberg, Germany convicted 22 top German Nazis of war crimes. Eleven were sentenced to death.

In 1962, President John F. Kennedy federalized the Mississippi National Guard and sent troops to Oxford to restore order after Negro James H. Meredith was barred from the University of Mississippi.

Ten years ago: Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer was sworn in as chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Five years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson signed a bill to stimulate rapid transportation systems, including new high-speed trains.

One year ago: It was announced that 6,000 American military men would be withdrawn from Thailand, and there would be a pullback of 6,000 more U.S. Marines from Vietnam.

Soviets Mean To Take Suez

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

President Nixon wants to see the Arabs and the Israelis agree on a workable peace for the Middle East, with security all around whether it is attained through a redrawing of strategic boundaries or by the signing of pacts that include automatic sanctions. But the Soviets want the Suez Canal. And, since the Communists never really compromise when they negotiate, we are left with the cold choice between continued conflict and a "peace" that would deliver half the world into the hands of an implacable enemy.

What the Soviets intend to get is spelled out in the blurry Aesopian language that they habitually use when posing their strategic aims. Moscow, as the Israelis point out in their own official analysis of the Soviet statement, "is not merely engaging in a policy of support and aid for Egypt." The Israelis are clear-eyed about the ultimate Soviet desire to throw the West out of the Middle East and to replace it with a formidable Communist naval power "capable of free movement around the Arabian Peninsula through the Suez Canal." Such is the Israeli deduction from a paragraph in the Supreme Soviet statement that reads:

"Israeli aggression in the Middle East, supported by neocolonialist circles, is aimed not only against the Arab states. What happens in that area, at the junction of the Asian and African continents, has a direct bearing on the destinies of the peoples of all the countries of Asia and Africa, on the destinies of universal peace, on the security of nations... passiveness in the face of the aggressor would unite the hands of the imperialists for new aggressive actions against other peoples."

As the Israelis say, this places the Israeli-Arab dispute on a global footing. The destinies of all southern Asia and eastern Africa will be decided in favor of the Communists if Israel is cravenly "neutralized" or allowed to go under.

The Soviets, according to the official Israeli "policy background" paper, are willing to "tailor and cosmeticize" their tactics to assuage Western fears, but the strategy is not affected thereby. Moscow has been closing in on Suez from two directions. It has connived with the Egyptians to move the SA II and the SA III missiles up to the canal bank despite the terms of the cease-fire agreement. And the Soviet naval presence is made doubly strong in the eastern Mediterranean by the port facilities which Moscow has acquired in Latakia, Syria and Port Said and Alexandria in Egypt. This nails down the approach to Suez from the north.

Meanwhile, despite the long sea haul around the Cape of Good Hope, the Soviets have also been establishing their "presence" in Yemen, Aden, Somaliland, Mauritius, Basra, and the Andaman Islands. As Dr. Stefan Possony of the Hoover Institute at Stanford University points out, none of this activity makes sense save on the supposition that the Suez Canal will some day be opened under Russian control. Dr. Possony says "the Suez Canal is the main missing link... If the USSR breaks through at Suez, it would be able to outflank Europe as well as Asia, and it would follow through with major moves in the Far East."

A complicating factor for Moscow is the Red Chinese reaction to the Soviet blueprint. The Maoists have been active in the Fedayeen attempts to overthrow King Hussein in Jordan. According to the Hoover Institute information,

George Habash, the leader of the Palesine Liberation Front, receives $10,000 plus family allowances from Peking each month. Red China has also been moving to counter the Soviet on the Indian Ocean side; southern Arabia has its Maoist guerrillas and there is a real Red Chinese "presence" in Tanzania. However, the Western Communist proximity to Syria and to Jordan and the fact that the Red Chinese lack naval power mean that the Soviets are not seriously menaced by Peking in their take-Suez strategy.

How the U.S., which clings to the hope of a peace that will preserve Israel as a balancing factor in the Middle East, can pull some brands from the burning is not apparent from anything that Washington is doing. We might as well know and face the worst.

MONSTROUS TASK—Resembling a sea monster, a serpentine pollution-control boom is an increasingly familiar sight on U.S. waterways. Tended by a technician of the coastal services division of Ocean World Corp., this one riding above and below the surface is acting as a fence to prevent oil from spreading in a spill in the Atlantic Ocean off Falmouth, Mass.

Weisenberger-Pontious Wedding Vows Exchanged

MRS. T. DOUGLAS PONTIOUS

Miss M. Christine Weisenberger and R. Douglas Pontious were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, Sept. 12 in St. Peter's Church, Chillicothe.

The Very Rev. Msgr. Julius G. Klinec performed the ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Weisenberger of Chillicothe and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald V. Pontious, 149 Walnut St.

A program of nuptial music was presented by the bride's uncle, Brother Eugene Weisenberger.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding an ivory silk satin and beaded re-embroidered Alencon lace A-line gown. The empire lace bodice featured a sheer yoke and scalloped lace cameo collar. The bracelet length bell sleeves and the hemline were encircled with wide bands of scalloped beaded lace. Her chapel length mantilla profile of silk illusion, trimmed with matching lace, fell from a profile of Alencon lace trimmed with matching lace, fell from a profile of Alencon lace trimmed with seed pearls. She carried her mother's prayerbook which was covered with a small floral arrangement in the Williamsburg tradition.

Mrs. William E. Grady Jr., the bride's sister, was matron of honor and bridesmaid was Miss Franice Sheehan. They wore formal length gowns of a brown print voile accented with wheat-colored dotted swiss aprons. They carried preserved fall flowers arranged in antique smoke shades and wore matching flowers in their hair.

Craig Benzenberg performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Larry Morgan of Columbus and David Pontious, the bridegroom's brother.

A reception given by the bride's parents followed at the Valley House, Chillicothe. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Theodore W. Janssen, Miss Mary Camp, Mrs. Larry Morgan and Mrs. Bob Wilson, sister of the groom.

Gilligan Accuses Cloud Of Viciousness

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Responding to sharp criticism by his gubernatorial opponent, Democrat John J. Gilligan accused Republican Roger Cloud today of "stooping to vicious, personal attacks."

Gilligan dared Cloud to "come out from behind your smoke-screen of innuendo and discuss the issues of this campaign with me before the people of Ohio."

Gilligan told the Cleveland Life Underwriters in Cleveland Cloud has been trying to "cover up the failures of the Republican administration and the scandal in the Statehouse that is destroying public confidence in state government."

"My opponent thinks that by calling me names and by questioning my patriotism he can make the voters of Ohio forget the millions of dollars in taxpayers' money illegally loaned," Gilligan asserted.

He said he has tried repeatedly to get Cloud to debate with him on statewide television. "But Roger Cloud simply refuses to let the people of Ohio examine him and his views in the cold light of day."

It was the second time in two days Gilligan has bitterly criticized his opponent's campaign tactics.

On Tuesday, he told Young Democrats at Xavier University in Cincinnati he never urged students to riot, as is reported in a Republican-sponsored radio announcement.

The remark was quoted in the Xavier University News, a student newspaper, after Gilligan spoke at the school in 1964.

"It is a lie; they know it is a lie, I know it is a lie and you know it is a lie," Gilligan said Tuesday.

Gilligan was interrupted by Robert Ryan, who wrote the newspaper story. He shouted from the rear of the hall: "You called me and asked that I suppress your statement."

Gilligan said Ryan was lying, too.

Meanwhile, Cloud, campaigning in Toledo Tuesday night, again criticized Gilligan's tax proposals and "political negativism."

He said corporate and income tax proposals by Gilligan would deny Ohioans the salary boosts, job security and increased job opportunity that a growing economy brings.

"Tax reform not tax increases must be a first priority of the administration taking office in January," Cloud told employees of the Owens-Illinois Co.

"Experience and insight are needed to meet problems with added creativity, not with expanded bureaucracy and spending programs," Cloud said.

He said the responsible leader of the 70s will have to "abandon carping and criticism in favor of planning and positive proposals, excellence at image-making doesn't do much in training a man to be a leader."

Democratic Senate candidate Howard Metzenbaum toured Southeastn Ohio on Tuesday.

During a stop at Martins Ferry, he told newsmen the Nixon administration is the first in American history to "deliberately advocate unemployment as a national policy."

He said the people are "fed up with an administration that thinks unemployment is a tonic to the nation's problems."

Metzenbaum said many southern Ohio counties have more than 7 per cent unemployment and Pike County leads the state with 14 per cent.

Delta Queen Fate Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees were deadlocked Tuesday on whether to exempt the riverboat Delta Queen from safety at sea laws.

The conferees' next meeting on the shipbuilding and subsidy bill is subject to the call of Rep. Edward A. Garmatz, chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee.

The Delta Queen is the last remaining sternwheeler in the United States carrying overnight passengers. But because it has a wooden structure, it does not qualify under new legislation to carry overnight passengers.

Its owners, contending the boat never is far from shore, are trying to exempt it from the safety at sea law.

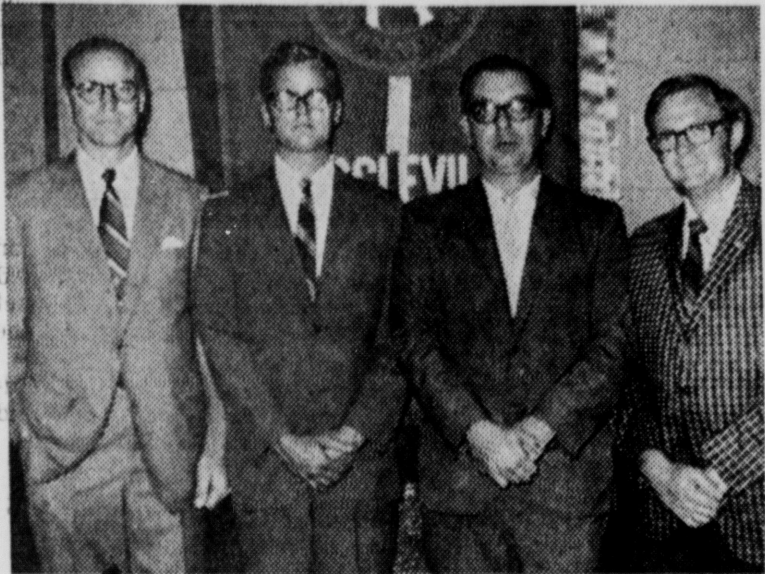

The last extension granted the Delta Queen by Congress expires Nov. 1. Then it will have

Speech And Hearing Center To Resume Classes Saturday

The Pickaway County Speech and Hearing Center, under the supervision of the State Board of Health, will resume fall speech classes Saturday.

The speech and hearing center is located at the Mound Street Elementary School. Approximately 75 children from the Circleville city and county schools comprise the present caseload.

The majority of the children enrolled for therapy, ranging from five to 16 years of age, have articulatory deviations. The disorders of language delay, cerebral palsy, voice, hearing difficulties and stuttering account for the remainder of the caseload. Many of the clients are referred by teachers, but referrals may also come from other professionals in the area and parents.

Louis J. Rosso, a doctoral candidate at Ohio State University, is the supervisor. The local coordinator appointed for the clinic is Mrs. Paul Schein of Williamsport and Mrs. Montford Kirkwood of Circleville is the clinic secretary.

COMPLETING the staff, five speech and hearing therapists from The Ohio State University will travel to Circleville each Saturday. Also, volunteers from the Circleville Crippled Children's Bureau support the center by providing assistance and refreshments at each Saturday session.

Rosso states that additional evaluations of speech and/or hearing disorders will be conducted during each Saturday session. Additional referral information may be obtained from Mrs. Paul Schein. Her telephone number is 986-3199

Cloud Hammers At Gilligan's 'Inexperience'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Republican gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud was telling voters Monday night his experience as state auditor would enable him to provide improved state services.

His Democratic opponent, John J. Gilligan, meanwhile, was charging the present Republican administration has allowed Ohio to slip in some areas where "we really should excel."

Addressing the National Association of Accountants in Columbus, Cloud said the solution to budget problems is not simply more money, but better money management.

He said the state should make use of the same sophisticated planning and management techniques used in business and industry.

Gilligan told a group of Ohio State University faculty members and their wives the state needs capable, honest leadership.

"We have fallen behind in the education of our children," he said. "We have fallen behind in the preservation of our environment. We have fallen behind in the effort to make our cities decent places in which to live."

Earlier Monday, Cloud proposed he and Gilligan limit their radio and television campaign spending.

He suggested both follow the guidelines of a bill in Congress which would limit the spending of all candidates to seven cents for each vote cast in the last gubernatorial election.

The two major candidates for the U.S. Senate, Democrat Howard M. Metzenbaum and Republican Rep. Robert Taft Jr., already have agreed to limitations on radio-TV advertising.

Metzenbaum and Taft both campaigned in northeastern Ohio Monday.

Senator Howard M. Metzenbaum said president Nixon's economic programs "brought the reality of unemployment and under-employment home to one out of every five American families."

He said 1.5 million American men and women have lost their jobs since Nixon took office.

Taft said in Steubenville he is opposed to a national police force which would breed unresponsive centralization and bureaucracy in Washington.

"The place to fight crime is in local communities with local law enforcement officers," he stressed. He said Congress must quickly approve Nixon's eight remaining anti-crime bills to give police more tools with which to curb the rising crime rate.

Elsewhere on the political scene, candidates for attorney general and state treasurer have accepted invitations to debate at the Cleveland City Club. Republican attorney general candidate John Herbert and his Democratic opponent, William J. Brown, will appear Oct. 7. The treasurer candidates, Democrat Gertrude Donahy and Republican Robin Turner, will debate Oct. 14.

In Cleveland, the 21st Congressional District Caucus, a predominantly black political organization which has broken off from the Cuyahoga County Democratic party, endorsed Metzenbaum but withheld an endorsement in the gubernatorial race.

The caucus said both Gilligan and Cloud would make good governors and it was letting the people decide.

First Lady Says Women's Lib Strikes Bad

ROME (AP) — Pat Nixon said Tuesday she doesn't believe in strikes of any kind, including the one for women's liberation.

"There are other ways to accomplish this," she said.

Remaining in Rome while her husband was with the U.S. 6th Fleet, Mrs. Nixon had coffee with ladies of the Italian press and talked about everything from fashions to bullfights.

She said she had "the feeling of almost awe" Monday in meeting Pope Paul VI "because he has great power throughout the world. I am always in awe of popes."

Mrs. Nixon reiterated that she is for equal rights and equal pay for equal work. As for the women's liberation movement, she said "there is a lot of good in this," but some on the fringes "are hurting the cause."

Tattooed Dog Helps Agency

MIAMI (AP) — Mrs. Pat Palmeri of Hialeah took along her dog for assistance when she went to get a duplicate Social Security card.

Mrs. Palmeri had lost her original card. Her Social Security number had been tattooed on the thigh of her Doberman pinscher, Warrior, to identify the dog if he were lost or stolen.

While Social Security office personnel helped hold Warrior down Monday, a secretary copied the tattoo number and said it would be used to speed the process of getting Mrs. Palmeri a new card.

Tattooed Dog Helps Agency

MIAMI (AP) — Mrs. Pat Palmeri of Hialeah took along her dog for assistance when she went to get a duplicate Social Security card.

Mrs. Palmeri had lost her original card. Her Social Security number had been tattooed on the thigh of her Doberman pinscher, Warrior, to identify the dog if he were lost or stolen.

While Social Security office personnel helped hold Warrior down Monday, a secretary copied the tattoo number and said it would be used to speed the process of getting Mrs. Palmeri a new card.

Taft said in Steubenville he is opposed to a national police force which would breed unresponsive centralization and bureaucracy in Washington.

"The place to fight crime is in local communities with local law enforcement officers," he stressed. He said Congress must quickly approve Nixon's eight remaining anti-crime bills to give police more tools with which to curb the rising crime rate.

Elsewhere on the political scene, candidates for attorney general and state treasurer have accepted invitations to debate at the Cleveland City Club. Republican attorney general candidate John Herbert and his Democratic opponent, William J. Brown, will appear Oct. 7. The treasurer candidates, Democrat Gertrude Donahy and Republican Robin Turner, will debate Oct. 14.

In Cleveland, the 21st Congressional District Caucus, a predominantly black political organization which has broken off from the Cuyahoga County Democratic party, endorsed Metzenbaum but withheld an endorsement in the gubernatorial race.

The caucus said both Gilligan and Cloud would make good governors and it was letting the people decide.

First Lady Says Women's Lib Strikes Bad

ROME (AP) — Pat Nixon said Tuesday she doesn't believe in strikes of any kind, including the one for women's liberation. "There are other ways to accomplish this," she said.

Remaining in Rome while her husband was with the U.S. 6th Fleet. Mrs. Nixon had coffee with ladies of the Italian press and talked about everything from fashions to bullfights.

She said she had "the feeling of almost awe" Monday in meeting Pope Paul VI "because he has great power throughout the world. I am always in awe of popes."

Mrs. Nixon reiterated that she is for equal rights and equal pay for equal work. As for the women's liberation movement, she said "there is a lot of good in this," but some on the fringes "are hurting the cause."

Tiny General Store Owner Going Strong After 51 Years

By TOBY MASSEY
Associated Press Photographer
LISBON, Fla. (AP) — The big close-out sale for the day was on a pair of work shoes, size unknown. There were also good buys on satin to line a casket, butter molds and feed bags.

Despite the bargains, business was sort of slow. But then George Gastfield isn't exactly the high-powered salesman type anyway.

And, while the big oaks and Spanish moss setting is picturesque, Gastfield's general store is a little off the beaten path. It's smack in the middle of Lisbon, Fla., a farm patch on the banks of Haines Creek with a population of about 900. Lisbon used to be a port of sorts when there was traffic on the central Florida lake chains.

Gastfield, 70, started his business 51 years ago and plans to keep going "Bout as long as I'm able." And he says he takes care of himself, so that should be for some time.

He usually sits with his feet propped high on a roll-top desk. "Keeps the rheumatism off," he says.

If he's in the middle of a treatment, Phatron Miller or Willie Fail could show customers around. Fail says he's 74 and Miller claims, "I just don't know."

Famed Boston 'Street Priest' Says Youth Beyond Saving

By HARR EISENBERG
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The Rev. Paul Shanley, Boston's "street priest" the last four years, has given up walking his beat. "It was the only thing I could do to keep my sanity," Father Shanley said in an interview. "I couldn't hack it any more."

Shaggy-haired, hippie-garbed and sometimes bearded, Father Paul, as he is called by those who know him, was a familiar figure wherever runaways gathered in Boston. They were his flock, these "street kids," youngsters who had left their homes and turned, for the most part, to drugs.

The controversial 39-year-old priest, assigned by Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, to work with runaways, considered his unorthodox dress and appearance his tools.

"I adopted the dress of my people," he said.

He has been off the streets now for almost seven weeks, at his own request.

"There wasn't anything more I could do for the kids," he said. "The first year we reconciled a lot of the kids," Father Shanley said. "The second year we were able to keep them on soft drugs, off the killers. Last year we could only keep them alive. This year we couldn't even do that."

"I can't watch any more what society's doing to its kids," he added. "I feel like a father whose son is about to be killed by a bus. It's bad enough to know it's going to happen without having to watch it happen."

Fixit Man Millionaire, Friends Find

NEW YORK (AP) — To his fellow tenants over the years, Morris Ocko was the man in the basement apartment who could repair a radio, tune a television set or fix a balky toaster.

But few, even in his own family, realized that Ocko was also something of a financial genius whose personal fortune had grown to $3.9 million in stockholdings by the time he died at age 64 about two weeks ago.

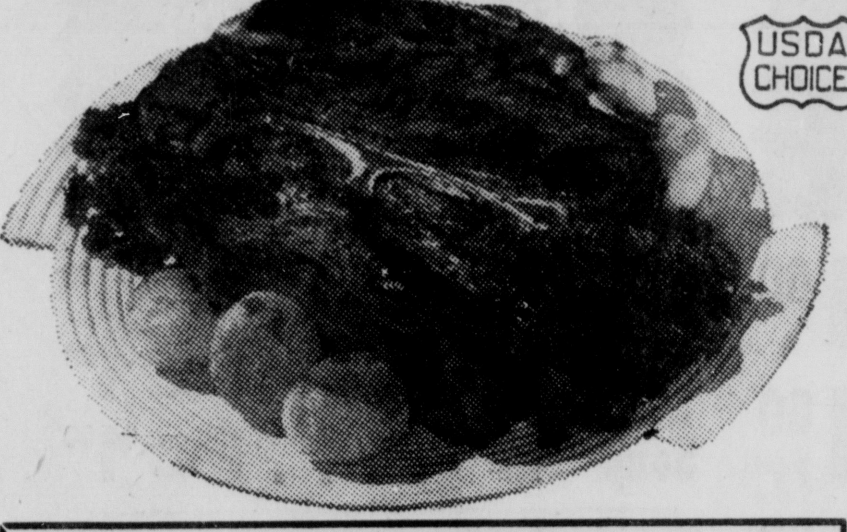

He left no will and the fact that he was a multimillionaire came out Monday in Surrogate Court where his sister, Lillian Isaacs of the Bronx, was appointed to administer the estate.

Mrs. Isaacs, who will share the estate with three nieces and seven nephews, said she was surprised at its size. She remembered her bachelor brother for his "generosity" in helping pay for the education of the children and his habit of sending regular contributions for her rent.

Daniel S. Cohan, the lawyer who filed the court papers, said Ocko began investing in the stock market as a young man and amassed his fortune without the aid of professional advisers.

Ocko died while doing a job that was a favor for a friend. On Saturday nights he customarily helped the owner of a newsstand sort and arrange the sections of the Sunday newspapers—for which he received a small sum.

He was stricken with a heart attack the night of Sept. 12 and died later at the hospital.

Dream Of Arab Unity Unfulfilled

CAIRO (AP) — Gamal Abdel Nasser, the most important Arab statesman to emerge in modern times, died with his dream of uniting the Arab world behind him unfulfilled.

He wrote of his dream and led summit conferences to achieve it, yet his actions repeatedly drove quarreling Arab factions farther apart.

His struggle to bring his brand of revolutionary socialism to Egypt and its neighbors, coupled with his determination to destroy Israel, brought the world to the verge of war.

The day before he died, he had shepherded an agreement between Jordan's King Hussein and Arab guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat to end Jordan's bloody civil war—a conflict that threatened international intervention.

But even then the agreement encouraged the guerrillas to increase their war against Israel despite a cease-fire with Israel that Nasser and Hussein had signed in August.

When death came at the age of 52, Nasser could point to the giant Soviet-built Aswan Dam as a major achievement for Egypt's struggling industry and impoverished farmers. At the same time, his country was bankrupt from 20 years of battling Israel.

Nasser was the first to sign the U.S.-sponsored cease-fire that went into effect in August, but before the ink was dry Israel accused Egypt of violating the agreement by moving Soviet missiles into the Suez Canal truce zone.

Peace with Israel would have been virtually an unknown thing to Nasser.

It was the Arab-Israeli war of 1948 that led Nasser to plot the downfall of Egypt's King Farouk. Nasser, who risked a court martial to go to the battlefield, was so incensed at the incompetence of the Egyptian army and its miserable equipment, that he and other officers created their "Free Officers" movement against the throne.

In 1952, the young officers moved in and Farouk was out. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, an old soldier, was named prime minister. Nasser lived in a modest bungalow with his wife, two daughters and three sons, working 20 hours a day to rebuild Egypt according to his revolutionary pattern.

In November 1954, Nasser

pushed Naguib out and took over the premiership, still only 36 years old and confident.

That confidence was shattered a year later when the Israelis swept across the Gaza strip, whipping the Egyptians soundly.

It was the first of three times his army was to be humiliated by the Israelis — defeats that would have driven most Arab politicians into the shadows.

Instead, Nasser turned to the Soviet Union for help, kept tight control over the local Communists, and proclaimed "positive neutrality."

In 1956, in a daring move that threatened an international face-down, Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal. An Israeli blitz swept across the Sinai desert while French and British troops seized Port Said.

In rare unison, the United States and the Soviet Union both denounced the invasion and the British, French and Israeli withdrawal. The Russians followed their diplomatic success with aid to build the Aswan Dam.

Nasser's most devastating defeat came in 1967, when Israel's air force and shock troops shattered the Egyptian army in a six-day war that left the Israelis stationed along the Suez.

He resigned "completely and forever," but agreed to return to power when thousands of hysterical Egyptians poured into the street shouting his name.

He grew noticeably more stooped, however, and his smile lost some of its dazzle. He played less tennis but continued his daily walks.

In 1968 he went to the Soviet Union for medical treatment. He returned to Moscow last June and he spent 19 days of June and July there discussing Middle East affairs with Soviet leaders.

Liquor Permit Freeze Ended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Department of Liquor Control is lifting a two-month freeze on new retail liquor permits imposed because of confusion over census figures.

Director Donald E. Cook said about 175 permits awaiting issuance will be processed within 10 days.

Cook said he ordered the freeze because there was some question about the accuracy of population figures on which permit quotas are based.

The freeze was being removed following receipt of preliminary 1970 census figures, he said.

Ohio Marine Killed
WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Lance Cpl. Michael L. McVey, son of Mrs. Jeanette McVey of Cleveland, Ohio, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Tuesday.

1,000 PINTS OF BLOOD—Ballard High School teacher Charles Fletcher smiles from his hospital bed in Seattle, Wash., prior to hip surgery for which he needs 1,000 pints of blood. He is a hemophiliac—his blood doesn't coagulate. Ballard students scheduled blood donation clinics at the school.

Grant Is Awarded For Law Enforcement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The District 13 Crime Control Council embracing Butler, Clermont, Hamilton and Warren counties has been awarded a $73,422 federal grant for the continuation of a specialized in-service training and community relations program.

State Urban Affairs Director Albert G. Giles said the grant was approved by the Ohio Law Enforcement Planning Agency. The money will be used to train about 450 law enforcement officers in community relations to improve the public image of policemen.

Voters Reject Levy
ST. CLAIREVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Voters in the Barnesville school District of Belmont County turned down a 4-mill operating levy Tuesday, 636-883. School officials immediately announced they would try again for passage on the Nov. 3 ballot.

Pickaway Grange

STAR GRANGE
Star Grange met in regular Session Tuesday evening in the Monroe School auditorium with worthy master, Harold Furniss, presiding over the business session.

He announced that Star Grange had placed first in their grange booth at the county fair and thanked all who had helped. The charter was draped in memory of our deceased member Lee Kern. The secretary, Helen Hammel, announced that the county-wide installation of new officers will be Wednesday evening, Oct. 14 at the 4-H and Grange building and all newly elected officers are urged to be present. Mt. Pleasant Grange will be hosts for the evening.

OSU Coed's Death Probed By Police

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An autopsy was planned today to determine what caused the death of an Ohio State University coed found submerged face down in bathtub in her North Side apartment.

Until the coroner rules, police said they were operating on the theory that Sharon Katz, 21, was murdered.

The body, blistered from scalding hot water and with a hemp twine wrapped around the throat was found Tuesday by the victim's husband, Nathan, 21.

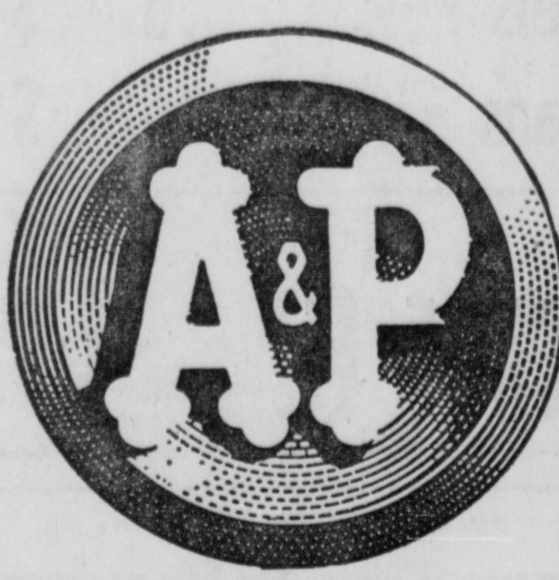

Katz, a state employee, told police he found the bathroom door locked when he came home for lunch. He had the apartment manager open the door and found the nude body in the tub.

Police questioned Katz and two other persons. None was detained.

Homicide Sgt. Ralph Arnett said there were signs of a struggle in a bedroom but no visible evidence of a forced entry into the apartment.

Katz and his wife both were from Dayton. He attended Miami University in Oxford before the couple was married last December.

The osprey, one of the world's most majestic birds, is a tireless hunter, dramatically dive-bombing the water for its dinner. But insecticides in the fish are sterilizing the bird's eggs and causing overly thin shells.

Dream Of Arab Unity Unfulfilled

CAIRO (AP) — Gamal Abdel Nasser, the most important Arab statesman to emerge in modern times, died with his dream of uniting the Arab world behind him unfulfilled.

He wrote of his dream and led summit conferences to achieve it, yet his actions repeatedly drove quarreling Arab factions farther apart.

His struggle to bring his brand of revolutionary socialism to Egypt and its neighbors, coupled with his determination to destroy Israel, brought the world to the verge of war.

The day before he died, he had shepherded an agreement between Jordan's King Hussein and Arab guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat to end Jordan's bloody civil war—a conflict that threatened international intervention.

But even then the agreement encouraged the guerrillas to increase their war against Israel despite a cease-fire with Israel that Nasser and Hussein had signed in August.

When death came at the age of 52, Nasser could point to the giant Soviet-built Aswan Dam as a major achievement for Egypt's struggling industry and impoverished farmers. At the same time, his country was bankrupt from 20 years of battling Israel.

Nasser was the first to sign the U.S.-sponsored cease-fire that went into effect in August, but before the ink was dry Israel accused Egypt of violating the agreement by moving Soviet missiles into the Suez Canal truce zone.

Peace with Israel would have been virtually an unknown thing to Nasser.

It was the Arab-Israeli war of 1948 that led Nasser to plot the downfall of Egypt's King Farouk. Nasser, who risked a court martial to go to the battlefield, was so incensed at the incompetence of the Egyptian army and its miserable equipment, that he and other officers created their "Free Officers" movement against the throne.

In 1952, the young officers moved in and Farouk was out. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, an old soldier, was named prime minister. Nasser lived in a modest bungalow with his wife, two daughters and three sons, working 20 hours a day to rebuild Egypt according to his revolutionary pattern.

In November 1954, Nasser

pushed Naguib out and took over the premiership, still only 36 years old and confident.

That confidence was shattered a year later when the Israelis swept across the Gaza strip, whipping the Egyptians soundly.

It was the first of three times his army was to be humiliated by the Israelis — defeats that would have driven most Arab politicians into the shadows.

Instead, Nasser turned to the Soviet Union for help, kept tight control over the local Communists, and proclaimed "positive neutrality."

In 1956, in a daring move that threatened an international face-down, Nasser nationalized the Suez Canal. An Israeli blitz swept across the Sinai desert while French and British troops seized Port Said.

In rare union, the United States and the Soviet Union both denounced the invasion and the British, French and Israelis withdrew. The Russians followed their diplomatic success with aid to build the Aswan Dam.

Nasser's most devastating defeat came in 1967, when Israel's air force and shock troops shattered the Egyptian army in a six-day war that left the Israelis stationed along the Suez.

He resigned "completely and forever," but agreed to return to power when thousands of hysterical Egyptians poured into the street shouting his name.

He grew noticeably more stooped, however, and his smile lost some of its dazzle. He played less tennis but continued his daily walks.

In 1968 he went to the Soviet Union for medical treatment. He returned to Moscow last June and he spent 19 days of June and July there discussing Middle East affairs with Soviet leaders.

Liquor Permit Freeze Ended

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Department of Liquor Control is lifting a two-month freeze on new retail liquor permits imposed because of confusion over census figures.

Director Donald E. Cook said about 175 permits awaiting issuance will be processed within 10 days.

Cook said he ordered the freeze because there was some question about the accuracy of population figures on which permit quotas are based.

The freeze was being removed following receipt of preliminary 1970 census figures, he said.

Ohio Marine Killed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Marine Lance Cpl. Michael L. McVey, son of Mrs. Jeanette McVey of Cleveland, Ohio, has been killed in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Tuesday.

1,000 PINTS OF BLOOD—Ballard High School teacher Charles Fletcher smiles from his hospital bed in Seattle, Wash., prior to hip surgery for which he needs 1,000 pints of blood. He is a hemophiliac—his blood doesn't coagulate. Ballard students scheduled blood donation clinics at the school.

Grant Is Awarded For Law Enforcement

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The District 13 Crime Control Council embracing Butler, Clermont, Hamilton and Warren counties has been awarded a $73,422 federal grant for the continuation of a specialized in-service training and community relations program.

State Urban Affairs Director Albert G. Giles said the grant was approved by the Ohio Law Enforcement Planning Agency. The money will be used to train about 450 law enforcement officers in community relations to improve the public image of policemen.

Voters Reject Levy

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Voters in the Barnesville school District of Belmont County turned down a 4-mill operating levy Tuesday, 636-883. School officials immediately announced they would try again for passage on the Nov. 3 ballot.

The secretary, Helen Hammel, announced that the county-wide installation of new officers will be Wednesday evening, Oct. 14 at the 4-H and Grange building and all newly elected officers are urged to be present. "Who Could Have Thought of Autumn" was read by Mrs. Robert Morgan and "Autumn Flight" was read by Mrs. Allen Follrod. Spending Rules For Schools Announced

Equalized Outlays Made Condition Of Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has set in motion new regulations for local school spending some officials predict will prove as momentous as the civil rights laws of the 1960s.

The Office of Education — following up an announcement of last February — has told districts that to qualify for the major source of federal aid they must spend as many state and local tax dollars in schools serving low-income neighborhoods as in those for more affluent areas.

The federal government calls this "comparability." Some districts spend as much as $500 more per pupil in their rich schools as in their poor ones, the education office says. In such districts federal aid seems to equalize expenditures between schools and does not, as intended, provide extra help for disadvantaged students.

Government officials blame this lack of comparability in part for disappointing results for the $1.5 billion aid program for upgrading the education of low-income students — title I of the Elementary and Secondary School Act.

The 16,400 districts receiving Title I funds must demonstrate comparability of expenditures among their schools by next July 1 or submit a plan for achieving that goal. Officials say as many as 12,000 appear not to meet the new standards.

Districts without comparability will be ineligible for Title I money after July 1, 1972. "These new requirements could be the most important thing to happen in the education of minority children since the 1964 Civil Rights act," said an administration official who helped draft the rules. "They are going to become a very hot issue when people realize their impact and meaning for the financing of education."

Phone Rate Request Is Trimmed Down

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Negotiations between the United Telephone Co. of Ohio and several communities it serves have resulted in a reduced rate increase request filed Monday with the Public Utilities Commission.

The compromise agreement would create $9.75 million in increased revenue for the company, $4.25 million less than United originally had sought. The agreement also calls for certain improvements in service.

Spending Rules For Schools Announced

Equalized Outlays Made Condition Of Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has set in motion new regulations for local school spending some officials predict will prove as momentous as the civil rights laws of the 1960s.

The Office of Education — following up an announcement of last February — has told districts that to qualify for the major source of federal aid they must spend as many state and local tax dollars in schools serving low-income neighborhoods as in those for more affluent areas.

The federal government calls this "comparability." Some districts spend as much as $500 more per pupil in their rich schools as in their poor ones, the education office says. In such districts federal aid seems to equalize expenditures between schools and does not, as intended, provide extra help for disadvantaged students.

Government officials blame this lack of comparability in part for disappointing results for the $1.5 billion aid program for upgrading the education of low-income students — Title I of the Elementary and Secondary School Act.

The 16,400 districts receiving Title I funds must demonstrate comparability of expenditures among their schools by next July 1 or submit a plan for achieving that goal. Officials say as many as 12,000 appear not to meet the new standards.

Districts without comparability will be ineligible for Title I money after July 1, 1972. "These new requirements could be the most important thing to happen in the education of minority children since the 1964 Civil Rights act," said an administration official who helped draft the rules. "They are going to become a very hot issue when people realize their impact and meaning for the financing of education."

Phone Rate Request Is Trimmed Down

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Negotiations between the United Telephone Co. of Ohio and several communities it serves have resulted in a reduced rate increase request filed Monday with the Public Utilities Commission.

The compromise agreement would create $9.75 million in increased revenue for the company, $4.25 million less than United originally had sought. The agreement also calls for certain improvements in service.

No. 97 We have standard time zones today because some individuals determined there should be. In early days of the United States and Canada, "sun time" prevailed everywhere. As railways spanned the continent, each company scheduled its trains according to whichever "sun time" was convenient. Some seventy variances in solar time-keeping were in use. The resultant confusion can be imagined.

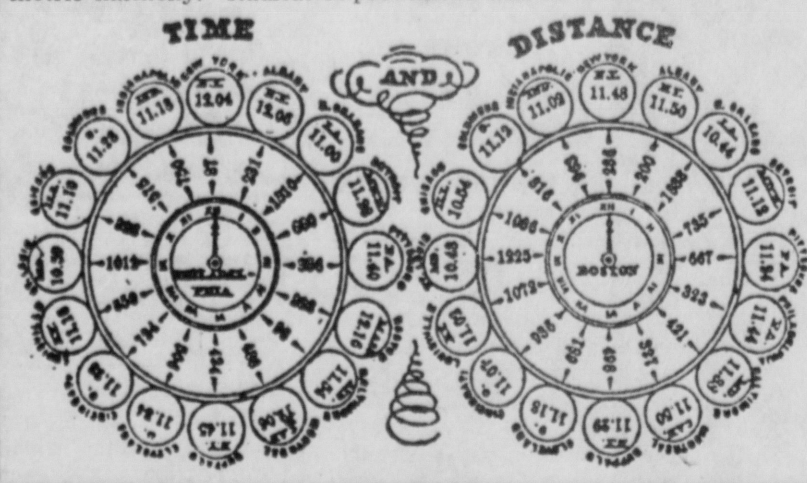

In 1870, Charles F. Dowd, headmaster of a ladies' seminary at Saratoga, N. Y., published a pamphlet, entitled System of National Time for Rail-Roads, that took the form of a petition to railway executives, legislators, businessmen. Sir Stanford Fleming, chief engineer of railways for the Dominion of Canada, joined him in the cause. Elaborate schemes were drawn up in accordance with the Dowd theory of "horometric harmony." Radical improvement was effected by William F. Allen, who proposed creation of five time zones for the U.S. and Canada using the 60th, 75th, 90th, 105th and 120th meridians respectively as standard based on Greenwich Meridian Time (Mariners' Time), with an even hour spread for each fifteen degrees.

Mr. Allen was managing editor of the Travelers' Official Guide of the Railways, a monthly, well aware of horometric disharmony across the continent. He theorized that any large section of the population could adjust itself contentedly in an area where time was fixed with a difference of not more than sixty minutes from sun time.

This was proved correct among urban dwellers. That is, after some thirteen years of agitation had produced change. As is often the case, private organizations acted more quickly than governmental bodies. United States and Canada railroads by concurrent agreement adopted the Allen time - zone scheme, Sunday, Nov. 8, 1883, before the U.S. government succeeded in bringing about an international conference to effect a world standardization of time-zoning.

This (←) and comparable computer charts, with adjustable arrows in centers, were offered in 1870s to adjust a railway traveler to conflicting time zones.

Say Manson Boastful Of Killings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Panamanian-born self-styled cowboy actor says he heard Charles Manson boast of being a killer shortly after the Sharon Tate murders and feared he had been tagged as Manson's next victim. He grabbed me by the hair and he put a knife on my throat and he said, "don't you know I'm the one that's doing all these killings?" Juan Flynn testified at the murder trial of Manson and three women followers Monday.

Flynn, 25, said he lived with Manson's hippie-style clan at the Spahn movie ranch for two years, working as a manure shoveler.

Flynn said the conversation came up as he was starting to eat lunch in a kitchen at the ranch two days after the Tate slayings. He didn't explain what prompted Manson to make the statement or brandish the knife, but said, "I thought he was just boasting."

Flynn said Manson eventually put the knife on the table and said, "You kill me."

When Flynn insisted he didn't want to kill Manson, he said, the shaggy-haired clan leader told him to "go down to the creek and make love to his girls."

Flynn said he declined, fearing he'd contract a venereal disease.

Manson, 35, and the three women are on trial on murder-conspiracy charges in the August 1969 slayings of Miss Tate and six others. Flynn was the first witness to say he heard Manson admit to the killings.

Senate Panel OKs Consumer Council For White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation designed to give the nation's consumers influence inside the federal government has been approved by a Senate panel.

In its final form, the measure was short of what some consumers groups had wanted, but it is still likely to provoke a fight on the Senate floor.

The compromise bill approved Monday by the Senate Government Operations Committee would create a White House Council of Consumer Advisors as a policy-making body for a new and independent consumer protection agency.

"For the first time in the history of the country, the consumer will have both a voice and an advocate in the government," said Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the Government Operations subcommittee which wrote the bill.

As approved, any member can make amendments to the bill in final debate.

Ribicoff said the government advocacy would likely prod regulatory agencies, such as the Federal Trade Commission, into actions to protect consumers which, he said, they have been reluctant to undertake in the past.

In its final form, the bill was short of a section creating a consumer fraud division in the Justice Department.

Ribicoff said that a bill allowing individual consumers to sue in federal court was hopelessly bottled in the Senate's Judiciary Committee making the work for a new fraud division moot at this time.

A committee amendment by Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., would require the new consumer agency to protect industrial trade secrets and another sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., would forbid it from making any disclosures or statements rating one product as better than another.

But Ribicoff said the consumer agency, if written into law, will for the first time give the individual citizen the power that he charged influential industrial and commercial groups have often usurped before regulatory agencies.

gher, D-N.J., said in prepared opening remarks he wanted to find if drugs are being used to quiet normal children who appear fidgety because they are bored.

Theodore Johnson, a Veteran's Administration chemist from Omaha, Neb., said in his prepared testimony that parents there had been coerced by techniques including threats that their children would be expelled unless they agreed to drugs.

He said officials would refer parents to doctors who would make the desired prescription.

Mrs. Daniel Youngs of Indianapolis said she and her husband left Little Rock, Ark., in 1966 after a three-year "nightmare." Officials pressured them to permit their two grade-school children to be given drugs in an experimental program run by the University of Arkansas Medical Center, she said in her prepared statement.

Mrs. Youngs said school officials, not doctors, diagnosed her son and daughter as having learning disabilities and pleaded with them repeatedly to submit them to drug treatment.

The couple's home was watched, she said, and both children were given extra work.

The family left two weeks before the end of the school year after officials threatened to go to court for permission to use drugs on the children, she said.

Two Arkansas Medical Center researchers denied that children were recruited for their program.

"The decision to seek professional help through the services of the Child Study Center is made by parents, who may first consult with their family physician, school personnel or other community resources," said a joint statement by John E. Peters and Sam D. Clements.

Claim School Pressure Used To Give Children Drugs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two witnesses told Congress Tuesday some school officials have harassed and pressured parents for permission to give drugs to problem children.

They testified before a House privacy subcommittee looking into the use of amphetamine to treat overactive children—as many as 300,000 of them by the estimate of one federal mental health official.

The drugs are medically accepted in treating a children's nerve disorder known as hyperactivity or minimal brain dysfunction—the problem child syndrome.

However, subcommittee chairman Cornelius E. Gall-

The first edition of the Westfall student newspaper, the "Echo," came out last Friday. The "Echo" is produced monthly for the enjoyment of the students, telling news, gossip, and other interesting information.

Even though the cover remained the same, much has changed within the walls of the paper. Besides the usual gossip column, club news and sport data, this year's paper will contain letters to the Mustang genius.

Two Westfall Students In Ohio Choir

This past summer two Westfall students received the honor of being selected to sing in the All Ohio Youth Choir '70.

Mike Puckett and Sally Minor were among 320 vocalists selected from high school students in all 88 counties upon recommendations of their choir directors. Under the direction of Glenville Thomas of Zanesville, the choir practiced and performed at the Ohio State Fair for 10 days. Besides various performances at the Grandstand and Coliseum, the choir also appeared on television 5 times.

Mike Puckett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Puckett of Williamsport, is a junior at Westfall and sings tenor. Sally Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Minor of Route 2, Circleville, is a senior and sings alto.

Field Trips Take Shape At High School

A new awakening in educational teaching has occurred at Westfall High School. What is it?

The "field trip" has taken great popularity with many classes traveling to a wide variety of localities. These prove to be educational, while also enjoyable.

Such trips include the following as just a few of the many that will take place this year: F.F.A. boys trip to the "Southern Corn Blight Clinic" and "Farm Science Review," the Band's trip to "Orient State

American Sentenced By Reds

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany convicted a young American of agitation against the state and sentenced him to seven years imprisonment, informed sources confirmed here Monday.

The sentence was considered unusually high for the alleged offense. One source declared: "There has been no parallel to this in recent years."

A U.S. spokesman said: "We are aware that this sentence has been passed."

He had no further immediate comment. The United States does not recognize East Germany. Contacts in such cases are carried out through East and West Berlin attorneys.

The closed trial of Mark Huesy, 21, Jericho, Vt., a student, began in East Berlin a week ago.

It was understood that Huesy was accused of criticizing East Germany and of trying to convince other persons of his viewpoint. He was defended by East Berlin attorneys.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

How To Get A Person To A Psychiatrist

DEAR ABBY: You frequently recommend psychiatric help, but you never say how to get a person to see a psychiatrist, and that's our problem.

A member of our family needs psychiatric help, (our family physician told us so) but if we just mention the word "psychiatrist" she tears the place apart, saying she isn't "crazy." Do you think we could prevail upon a psychiatrist to come to the house and pretend to be just a "friend"—or a regular doctor? That way he could observe the patient, and maybe win her confidence, and then later on treat her? If she knew he was a psychiatrist, she wouldn't even stay in the same room with him.

She likes and trusts the family physician, but HE says he can't do any more for her, she needs a psychiatrist. She refuses to go. Any suggestions?

MEMBER OF THE FAMILY: No reputable psychiatrist would permit himself to be introduced to a patient as a "friend" or even a "regular doctor." When the patient learns that the psychiatrist was part of a plan to trick her, she will lose all confidence in him and I would not blame her. Ask the family physician, whom she likes and trusts, to try to persuade her to see a psychiatrist. Honesty is still the best policy.

DEAR ABBY: Can you please tell me where the custom of kissing a lady's hand originated? And why?

S. C.
DEAR S.C.: It originated in France. A person has to start somewhere, and I suppose that's as good a place as any.

DEAR ABBY: People have written to say they were offended because they had received gifts which were obviously "used," and they accused the giver of trying to save money.

Whenever I have occasion to give a gift to a cherished friend, I first try to find something among my possessions that I have owned and loved (a small piece of jewelry, a rare old book, a piece of antique silver or china). I am not trying to save money. I merely want to give something of "mine" which I hope will be considered more precious than a newly purchased item.

Many of the recipients have told me they were deeply touched by such a gift. And I sincerely hope that no one thought me "cheap" or shabby.

YOUR HIGGANUM CORRESPONDENT
DEAR CORRESPONDENT: I agree. A cherished item from one's own personal collection of treasures makes a far more precious gift than a newly purchased item. But there are those materialistic dolls around who regard an antique as a white

Cardwell Promises Probe Of Pen Guards' Activities

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohio Penitentiary Warden Harold Cardwell promised a Senate subcommittee Monday he would investigate the charges of "massive mistreatment" of prisoners.

"I think it needs to be investigated and I shall," Cardwell said in asking chairman Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., for time to look into charges leveled earlier in the hearing by an Ohio churchwoman.

Dodd consented to give Cardwell time to study a coded chart prepared by Mrs. Ysabel Rennie which gave the identities of guards involved in alleged mistreatment incidents.

Mrs. Rennie presented her chart in reporting on her two-year study of Ohio prison conditions as chairman of a special committee of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Upper Arlington, Ohio.

She charged that "during the past two years there has been the grossest kind of mistreatment" in the prison's C-D block she referred to as "the hole."

"Beatings have been commonplace, and the men worst treated are the Negroes," she said. "Our committee has filed on more than 40 guards who have been involved in multiple instances of brutality against prisoners," she said.

One guard she called "Officer Blackjack" has a minimum of 22 assaults on his record, she said, and another she named

"Lieutenant Clubb" at least 18. Cardwell told the committee conditions at the prison are improving daily and a majority of the inmates are satisfied.

He said complaints of brutality "originate with a small minority of troublemakers." Cardwell said "a considerable number" of the guards listed in Mrs. Rennie's report still are on the staff of the penitentiary.

He said, however, he would like to leave some of the guards behind when the penitentiary moves from its century-old plant in downtown Columbus to buildings at Lucasville in April.

Cardwell said he believed Mrs. Rennie exaggerated in reporting "some 30 guards" witnessed and occasionally lent a hand in beating a handcuffed prisoner, Elbert Hawkins, on his return to Ohio Penitentiary in July 1969.

He said he never has been able to get 30 guards together at one time.

He conceded Hawkins was injured, but whether more force than necessary was used, he said, "is subject to question."

Two Westfall Students In Ohio Choir

This past summer two Westfall students received the honor of being selected to sing in the All Ohio Youth Choir '70.

Mike Puckett and Sally Minor were among 320 vocalists selected from high school students in all 88 counties upon recommendations of their choir directors. Under the direction of Glenville Thomas of Zanesville, the choir practiced and performed at the Ohio State Fair for 10 days. Besides various performances at the Grandstand and Coliseum, the choir also appeared on television 5 times.

Mike Puckett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Puckett of Williamsport, is a junior at Westfall and sings tenor. Sally Minor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Minor of Route 2, Circleville, is a senior and sings alto.

Field Trips Take Shape At High School

A new awakening in educational teaching has occurred at Westfall High School. What is it?

The "field trip" has taken great popularity with many classes traveling to a wide variety of localities. These prove to be educational, while also enjoyable.

Such trips include the following as just a few of the many that will take place this year: F.F.A. boys trip to the "Southern Corn Blight Clinic" and "Farm Science Review," and the Band's trip to "Orient State

American Sentenced By Reds

BERLIN (AP) — Communist East Germany convicted a young American of agitation against the state and sentenced him to seven years imprisonment, informed sources confirmed here Monday.

The sentence was considered unusually high for the alleged offense. One source declared: "There has been no parallel to this in recent years."

A U.S. spokesman said: "We are aware that this sentence has been passed."

He had no further immediate comment. The United States does not recognize East Germany. Contacts in such cases are carried out through East and West Berlin attorneys.

The closed trial of Mark Huesy, 21, Jericho, Vt., a student, began in East Berlin a week ago.

It was understood that Huesy was accused of criticizing East Germany and of trying to convince other persons of his viewpoint. He was defended by East Berlin attorneys.

Humiliation, Frustration Angered Nasser

Editor's Note: Miles Copeland, former U.S. diplomat and author of "The Game of Nations," had been a close friend of the late Gamal Abdel Nasser since 1953, when Copeland first served as a consultant to the Egyptian government. He still visits Egypt every two months and held day-long talks with the Egyptian president in April. In this article Copeland describes some of Nasser's attitudes toward Israel, the United States and the Arab world.

By MILES COPELAND
Written for
The Associated Press
LONDON (AP) — "Israel is a country of two million people," the late President Nasser told me recently, "and we are a country of 30 million."
"For Israel to be able to fly its airplanes over Cairo any time it wants is as humiliating to me as it would be to you if the Cubans were able to fly over Washington and your armed forces were powerless to stop them."

Truck Explosion Fatal To 2 Men; Arrest 4 Persons

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A dynamite truck exploded on the outskirts of Springfield early today and the Missouri Highway Patrol reported the arrest of two men and two women in connection with the blast.
The truck driver, John Galt, 48, Oklahoma City, Okla., was missing and presumed dead.
The patrol reported an intercepted call from one of the women led to her arrest at a farmhouse near Ash Grove, Mo., about 10 miles from the interstate highway where the dynamite truck blew up.
The two men and the other woman walked out of the nearby woods as a highway patrol plane circled overhead and ground searchers approached.
The patrol said a witness told of seeing a shot fired at the truck as it passed an interchange on Interstate Highway 44 west of Springfield.
Identifications of those arrested and details of the charges against them were not immediately available.
Two drivers on the truck were missing and believed dead. Two women, residents in the area at the western city limit, were hospitalized with undetermined injuries.
The Missouri Highway Patrol and the Greene County sheriff's office said they were investigating a report the truck had been fired on from a passing car shortly before the explosion.
The sheriff's office said two men were being questioned, and that three men were sought. FBI agents joined the investigation.
A car was found abandoned near the scene, and officers said they uncovered a 30-30 rifle and an expended cartridge nearby.

Shotgun, Pistol Taken In Ashville
Glen Hay, Route 2, Ashville, notified the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department of the theft of a shotgun and automatic pistol from his residence.
The weapons were taken between noon and 2 p.m. Tuesday when someone forced the kitchen door to gain admittance to the house. Value was set at $240.

feeling which was particularly painful to Nasser, and up to the day of his death it was the one most on his mind.
Next to frustration, that is.
In September 1969, Israeli raiders struck deep into Egyptian territory and for an encore kidnapped a radar base. A group of senior Egyptian army officers reacted by partly curbing Nasser's power, at least to the extent of inducing him to cancel a number of dismissals, and to agree in the future to accept their "advice" on promotions, assignments and transfers.
At the same time Nasser suffered a heart attack then described as a severe case of influenza. His doctors advised him that his life expectancy would be short unless he agreed to cut down his working day from the usual 14 hours to a reasonable four or five.
Since then Nasser had been trying to operate in a sort of chairman of the board capacity. To one whose style was tactics rather than strategy, the experience must have been terribly frustrating.

One of his closest subordinates told me a month ago, "The boss feels very uncomfortable in delegating to us, and he's right."
By the time of the peace initiative by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, it appeared that Nasser had simply begun to let things slide.
The world will never know how Nasser really felt about the Rogers initiative, or the possibility of peace with Israel.
To begin with, back in 1953-54, he needed Israel. With no strong feelings about Israel itself, he needed Israel as a common enemy against which to unite the Arabs.
If he could comfortably play the Americans and the Russians off against one another as mere spokesmen for Egypt, how much more effective he would be as a spokesman for the whole Arab world.
Later, after two humiliating defeats, he developed a genuine feeling of hostility toward Israel. But then he saw the two most loudly anti-Israel countries, Syria and Iraq, virtually make peace with Israel. They made it clear by their actions that they had no intention of fighting Israel and were more interested in squabbling with each other.
Meanwhile, they accused Egypt, which had been doing all the fighting, of pacifist inclinations.
Finally, Nasser saw various Palestinian organizations behaving so self-destructively that he began to suspect that some of them were being backed by the Israelis.
Some of Nasser's lieutenants seemed to be genuinely convinced that the Israelis were behind the recent airliner hijackings. To them the argument was not without a certain crazy logic since the Israelis were the only beneficiaries of the hostile world reaction to the terrorists.
We cannot know how Nasser really felt about all this, but given his ambition to go down as a great historical figure, it is easy to guess.
What did Nasser want?
First, like any good politician, he wanted to stay in power.
Second, he wanted to use his power for the benefit of Egypt — Egypt primarily, and then the so-called Arab world. He wanted to go down in history as one who had truly benefited his country.
As Nasser understood his economic situation in the 1950s, he saw that without massive aid, which could only come from the United States, he couldn't possibly achieve a growth rate to keep up with his country's birth rate, one of the highest in the world.

"With all the help in sight," he once told me, "and with all our best plans coming out perfectly, all I can hope for is to keep Egypt from slipping backwards." This was when, according to American economic experts, Egypt needed some $1 billion a year in hard currency, and the U.S. State Department was offering Nasser $40 million.
"If Nasser would only stick to Egypt and leave the rest of the Arab world alone," former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles used to say, "we would give him all the aid he wants." But Nasser was programmed to observe U.S. actions, not words.
The United States was then giving him aid and showing him deference to the extent to which he was influential throughout the Arab world and manifested a capability of making a nuisance of himself. When his behavior was not to our liking, we rewarded him. When he did as we wished, we forgot him.
"It seems to me," a senior associate told Dulles, "we should give Nasser credit for being at least as intelligent as Pavlov's dog."
And he was. Nasser began to hint that he might turn to the Soviets, and we raised our offer to $100 million. Then, being somewhat smarter than Pavlov's dog, he began to sharpen his hints and actually to take some Soviet aid.

The rest is history. Everyone knows how Secretary Dulles withdrew his offer of aid for the Aswan Dam and how Nasser immediately got what he needed from the Russians. What is not generally known is that once the U.S. government observed Nasser's new chumminess with the Soviets, it jumped right into the competition and began to offer greater amounts of aid than ever before.
Lebanese President Camille Chamoun was quick to spot the lesson. "Our difficulty in getting aid from the United States," he once told me, "is that we aren't very good at being anti-American. Perhaps I can get President Nasser to show me how," he said facetiously.
Chamoun knew, as any of Nasser's closest friends knew, that the Egyptian leader was never seriously anti-American, not anyhow until the U.S. government dropped out of the competition and became unreservedly pro-Israel.

Pipefitters Win Wage Boost

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pipefitters Local 120, on strike for five months, has reached a contract settlement with the Mechanical Contractors Association and 700 pipefitters will return to their jobs today.
The settlement was reached late Tuesday night at the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service offices.

The strike had held up millions of dollars in construction in the Cleveland area.
Under the agreement—which does not need membership ratification—pipefitters will receive an hourly pay increase of $3.15 over three years and another three cents an hour will be set aside for a special industry-union training program.
Bo'h sides meet today to work out final details and to sign the contract.
The contract, identical to one reached earlier in the day with the National Automatic and Fire Contractors Association, calls for a top rate of $10.96 an hour in the third year. The earlier contract affects 200 pipefitters.

Cleveland pipefitters in recent years have averaged 10 hours overtime a week, with overtime being paid at double the regular hourly rate. Under the old contract, pipefitters could make $16,224 a year without difficulty, and some have earned as much as $45,000 a year.

Humiliation, Frustration Angered Nasser

Editor's Note: Miles Copeland, former U.S. diplomat and author of "The Game of Nations," had been a close friend of the late Gamal Abdel Nasser since 1953, when Copeland first served as a consultant to the Egyptian government. He still visits Egypt every two months and held day-long talks with the Egyptian president in April. In this article Copeland describes some of Nasser's attitudes toward Israel, the United States and the Arab world.

By MILES COPELAND
Written for
The Associated Press
LONDON (AP) — "Israel is a country of two million people," the late President Nasser told me recently, "and we are a country of 30 million."
"For Israel to be able to fly its airplanes over Cairo any time it wants is as humiliating to me as it would be to you if the Cubans were able to fly over Washington and your armed forces were powerless to stop them."
Humiliation. This was the feeling which was particularly painful to Nasser, and up to the day of his death it was the one most on his mind.

Next to frustration, that is.
In September 1969, Israeli raiders struck deep into Egyptian territory and for an encore kidnapped a radar base. A group of senior Egyptian army officers reacted by partly curbing Nasser's power, at least to the extent of inducing him to cancel a number of dismissals, and to agree in the future to accept their "advice" on promotions, assignments and transfers.
At the same time Nasser suffered a heart attack then described as a severe case of influenza. His doctors advised him that his life expectancy would be short unless he agreed to cut down his working day from the usual 14 hours to a reasonable four or five.
Since then Nasser had been trying to operate in a sort of chairman of the board capacity. To one whose style was tactics rather than strategy, the experience must have been terribly frustrating.

One of his closest subordinates told me a month ago, "The boss feels very uncomfortable in delegating to us, and he's right."
By the time of the peace initiative by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, it appeared that Nasser had simply begun to let things slide.
The world will never know how Nasser really felt about the Rogers initiative, or the possibility of peace with Israel.
To begin with, back in 1953-54, he needed Israel. With no strong feelings about Israel itself, he needed Israel as a common enemy against which to unite the Arabs.
If he could comfortably play the Americans and the Russians off against one another as merely the spokesman for Egypt, how much more effective he would be as a spokesman for the whole Arab world.
Later, after two humiliating defeats, he developed a genuine feeling of hostility toward Israel. But then he saw the two most loudly anti-Israel countries, Syria and Iraq, virtually make peace with Israel. They made it clear by their actions that they had no intention of fighting Israel and were more interested in squabbling with each other.
Meanwhile, they accused Egypt, which had been doing all the fighting, of pacifist inclinations.
Finally, Nasser saw various Palestinian organizations behaving so self-destructively that he began to suspect that some of them were being backed by the Israelis.
Some of Nasser's lieutenants seemed to be genuinely convinced that the Israelis were behind the recent airliner hijackings. To them the argument was not without a certain crazy logic since the Israelis were the only beneficiaries of the hostile world reaction to the terrorists.
We cannot know how Nasser really felt about all this, but given his ambition to go down as a great historical figure, it is easy to guess.
What did Nasser want?
First, like any good politician, he wanted to stay in power.
Second, he wanted to use his power for the benefit of Egypt — Egypt primarily, and then the so-called Arab world. He wanted to go down in history as one who had truly benefited his country.
As Nasser understood his economic situation in the 1950s, he saw that without massive aid, which could only come from the United States, he couldn't possibly achieve a growth rate to keep up with his country's birth rate, one of the highest in the world.

"With all the help in sight," he once told me, "and with all our best plans coming out perfectly, all I can hope for is to keep Egypt from slipping backwards." This was when, according to American economic experts, Egypt needed some $1 billion a year in hard currency, and the U.S. State Department was offering Nasser $40 million.
"If Nasser would only stick to Egypt and leave the rest of the Arab world alone," former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles used to say, "we would give him all the aid he wants." But Nasser was programmed to observe U.S. actions, not words.
The United States was then giving him aid and showing him deference to the extent to which he was influential throughout the Arab world and manifested a capability of making a nuisance of himself. When his behavior was not to our liking, we rewarded him. When he did as we wished, we forgot him.
"It seems to me," a senior associate told Dulles, "we should give Nasser credit for being at least as intelligent as Pavlov's dog."
And he was. Nasser began to hint that he might turn to the Soviets, and we raised our offer to $100 million. Then, being somewhat smarter than Pavlov's dog, he began to sharpen his hints and actually to take some Soviet aid.

The rest is history. Everyone knows how Secretary Dulles withdrew his offer of aid for the Aswan Dam and how Nasser immediately got what he needed from the Russians. What is not generally known is that once the U.S. government observed Nasser's new chumminess with the Soviets, it jumped right into the competition and began to offer greater amounts of aid than ever before.
Lebanese President Camille Chamoun was quick to spot the lesson. "Our difficulty in getting aid from the United States," he once told me, "is that we aren't very good at being anti-American. Perhaps I can get President Nasser to show me how," he said facetiously.
Chamoun knew, as any of Nasser's closest friends knew, that the Egyptian leader was never seriously anti-American, not anyhow until the U.S. government dropped out of the competition and became unreservedly pro-Israel.

Pipefitters Win Wage Boost

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Pipefitters Local 120, on strike for five months, has reached a contract settlement with the Mechanical Contractors Association and 700 pipefitters will return to their jobs today.
The settlement was reached late Tuesday night at the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service offices.
The strike had held up millions of dollars in construction in the Cleveland area.
Under the agreement—which does not need membership ratification—pipefitters will receive an hourly pay increase of $3.15 over three years and another three cents an hour will be set aside for a special industry union training program.
Both sides meet today to work out final details and to sign the contract.
The contract, identical to one reached earlier in the day with the National Automatic and Fire Contractors Association, calls for a top rate of $10.96 an hour in the third year. The earlier contract affects 200 pipefitters.

Cleveland pipefitters in recent years have averaged 10 hours overtime a week, with overtime being paid at double the regular hourly rate. Under the old contract, pipefitters could make $16,224 a year without difficulty, and some have earned as much as $45,000 a year.

Truck Explosion
Fatal To 2 Men;
Arrest 4 Persons

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A dynamite truck exploded on the outskirts of Springfield early today and the Missouri Highway Patrol reported the arrest of two men and two women in connection with the blast.
The truck driver, John Galt, 48, Oklahoma City, Okla., was missing and presumed dead.
The patrol reported an intercepted call from one of the women led to her arrest at a farmhouse near Ash Grove, Mo., about 10 miles from the interstate highway where the dynamite truck blew up.
The two men and the other woman walked out of the nearby woods as a highway patrol plane circled overhead and ground searchers approached.
The patrol said a witness told of seeing a shot fired at the truck as it passed an interchange on Interstate Highway 44 west of Springfield.
Identifications of those arrested and details of the charges against them were not immediately available.
Two drivers on the truck were missing and believed dead. Two women, residents in the area at the western city limit, were hospitalized with undetermined injuries.
The Missouri Highway Patrol and the Greene County sheriff's office said they were investigating a report the truck had been fired on from a passing car shortly before the explosion.
The sheriff's office said two men were being questioned, and that three men were sought. FBI agents joined the investigation.
A car was found abandoned near the scene, and officers said they uncovered a 30-30 rifle and an expended cartridge nearby.

The truck, operated by Tri-State Motors, Inc., of Joplin, Mo., was one of a two-truck convoy. The other truck, about a half mile ahead, was not touched by the explosion.
The explosion occurred as they approached the city limits, blowing a crater 30 feet deep and 50 feet in diameter across Interstate 44, blocking all four lanes to traffic. The concussion was felt 15 miles away.
A security officer for the trucking company said the explosive was to dynamite composition.
The highway patrol said a witness reported that he saw a man fire a shot at the truck from a car on the eastbound ramp of the highway at the Greene County Route intersection.
The witness said he followed the car, and furnished the patrol with a description and a license number.
Troopers said the abandoned car matched the description and license number. It had been damaged, and there was blood inside.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's "Movie of the Week," a series of 90-minute filmed television programs with good production values and often top rank performers, comprise network television's only regularly scheduled anthology.

The first couple of shows this season indicate there will be an ambitious mix of stories and themes. Last week Anthony Perkins appeared in a Gothic tale of blindness and pyromania. On Tuesday the production was a so-so science-fiction tale called "Night Slaves." A convalescing man and his wife are visiting a small Western town which becomes strange after dark. Viewers who remember "The Invaders" will recognize the situation, even remember the plot.

James Franciscus played the hero, a man immune to the spell put on the villagers by visitors from another planet.

The series may go through a period of comparative inattention from viewers because it conflicts with NBC's Tuesday night movie. All three networks currently are broadcasting the cream of their feature film packages, a usual start-of-the-season practice. But as the season wears on and the lesser features turn up, "Movie of the Week" will look better and better.

CBS's uniformly rewarding

"60 Minutes" on Tuesday night started well with a roundtable discussion by a group of New Haven police officers after seeing a couple of short "stress films" showing fellow officers attempting to function under hostile conditions.

They told of personal reactions to abuse, insults and being called "pigs." Mostly it was anger, occasionally puzzlement. One officer told of being shrilled at by a boy and a few minutes later pulling the boy's foot out of a wheel where it was caught.

"I asked him did he still think I was a pig," the policeman related. He sounded hurt.

There was also a sympathetic portrait of William F. Buckley Jr., conservative columnist and editor.

Some footage showed Cuba's faltering economy.

The program has a tendency to concentrate on the serious side—some light notes occasionally would be welcome.

NBC has canceled "Life with Linkletter" and replaced it with "Words and Music," another in the parade of game shows which is the network's daytime specialty. The program will win no awards for originality, but it has finally found a way to bring a singing quartet and pop music into the format of a guessing game. Even so, it is a dreary way to kill a half hour.

Militant Student Demands Rejected By OSU Leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University officials have announced rejection of militant student demands for admissions, curriculum and employment policies based on race.

At the same time, officials said they are implementing other demands relating to black students and employees at OSU. The announcement corresponded with the start today of the fall quarter on the sprawling 45,000-student campus.

The university responded to 37 demands made by the Ad Hoc Committee for Student Rights before and during campus disorders last spring.

While agreeing that more black students should be given an opportunity to attend OSU, the administration rejected demands for:

—Establishment of an admissions policy based on race, creed or color.

GOP Chairman To Be Speaker At State Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican National Chairman Rogers Morton will be the principal speaker at the state GOP convention here Oct. 8.

Morton will address a crowd of some 2,900 in the old Palace Theater and a television audience in the state's major cities.

Republican officials said plans call for brief speeches by Gov. James A. Rhodes, gubernatorial candidate Robert Taft Jr., U.S. Senate nominee Robert Taft Jr., and judicial and other statewide candidates.

The platform committee headed by Ohio Senate Majority Leader Ted Gray of Piqua will present the platform to delegates during the afternoon of the convention.

Final touches will be put to the platform following a public hearing here next Tuesday morning.

—Establishment of a segregated orientation program for blacks.

—Creation of jobs specifically for blacks or the use of a quota system in employing dormitory directors and advisers.

But the administration said it has implemented programs to seek additional scholarship funds as well as a specific program of support for minority students.

Officials said that Negroes have been appointed to two key positions in the athletic department, a number of other blacks have been added to the athletic staff, and five more blacks have been added to the campus police force.

The university said it would continue to guarantee opportunities for employment based solely on qualifications.

Created in response to student activism, officials said, were the office of vice provost for coordination of minority affairs, an affirmative action program to study employment and enrollment practices, and a Faculty Council committee on student representation to study student participation on departmental committees.

Also rejected was a demand for amnesty for students who violated university or civil laws during last spring's demonstrations. The university refused to ask civil courts to drop charges against those arrested.

Officials turned down a demand that armed law enforcement agencies be barred from the campus during disruptions, saying the university would not "relinquish its responsibility to provide protection to human life and property."

Other student demands still under study, the university said, include setting up a campus day-care center, coordinating planned parenthood activities through the student health service, assuring equality for women students in employment, salary and enrollment, and elimination of academic status and rank of ROTC faculty.

Elderly Respond To Environment

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Elder inmates at the New Mexico State Penitentiary received questionnaires as part of a national survey seeking to pinpoint the problems of older people.

One question asked: "Are you happy in the neighborhood where you live?"

The inmates, all over 55-year-old, laughed a bit then listed lack of transportation and income as major criticisms of their environment.

Monday A Blue, Blue Day For Cuyahoga's Sheriff

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff Ralph Kreiger drew the anger of a Common Pleas judge and had three more deputies resign despite an announced pay increase in what had to be a blue, blue Monday for Cuyahoga County's chief law enforcement officer.

Kreiger has had 32 deputies resign in two months because of low pay. He announced Friday that a 25 per cent pay increase would go into effect for deputies on Oct. 22.

Kreiger claimed that the loss of personnel and a priority on jail security was behind his problems Monday with Judge John T. Patton.

Kreiger has taken 14 men from other assignments, including two from Patton's courtroom, and placed them on jail duty.

Patton arrived to find none of the 17 prisoners scheduled for arraignment present, and asked Kreiger to get more deputies to aid the one on duty in getting the prisoners to the courtroom.

Kreiger ordered deputies from five other courtrooms into Patton's court, immobilizing the other courtrooms.

Patton's anger increased when he found that six prisoners were not available. Two had escaped from the Warrensville Workhouse and the other four were at the suburban facility rather than in the jail. Patton then found out that one 19-year-old prisoner was brought before him to answer to an indictment on a 47-year-old prisoner with the same name.

"I'm not going to tell the sheriff what his priorities are," Patton said, "but I would think men coming to trial and being arraigned is more important than deputies patrolling highways."

Patton said that Kreiger used six deputies to escort the 11 prisoners who showed up in the courtroom and that normally three deputies were used to escort as many as 40 prisoners to the court.

Agnew's attack on the report came in a speech prepared for a Republican luncheon here, first stop on a three-day campaign trip by Agnew that takes him later to Minot, N.D., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

He also criticized North Dakota's junior senator, Democrat George S. McGovern as "one of the foremost national leaders of national liberalism—and its chief fund raiser today." He called on Democratic candidates for governor and Congress to repudiate McGovern, who is not himself a candidate this year.

In discussing the Scranton commission report, Agnew denounced what he called "the self appointed interpreters and translators on the commission, and within the nation's 'academic journalistic complex', who rushed before the cameras to sell us what it said."

Agnew Raps Commission On Unrest

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Tuesday assailed the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest, saying its failure to blame disrupters and their apologizers "will be taken as more pabulum for the permissiveness."

In the strongest criticism of the report yet from the Nixon administration, Agnew said it is "imprecise, contradictory and equivocal." Aides said the vice president's views did not necessarily represent the viewpoint of the White House, which has not yet commented.

The commission headed by former Republican Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania in its report issued Saturday laid the blame for campus unrest on many shoulders but said:

"Only the President has the platform and prestige to urge all Americans, at once, to step back from the battlelines into which they are forming."

Agnew's attack on the report came in a speech prepared for a Republican luncheon here, first stop on a three-day campaign trip by Agnew that takes him later to Minot, N.D., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — ABC's "Movie of the Week," a series of 90-minute filmed television programs with good production values and often top rank performers, comprise network television's only regularly scheduled anthology.

The first couple of shows this season indicate there will be an ambitious mix of stories and themes. Last week Anthony Perkins appeared in a Gothic tale of blindness and pyromania. On Tuesday the production was a so-so science-fiction tale called "Night Slaves." A convalescing man and his wife are visiting a small Western town which becomes strange after dark. Viewers who remember "The Invaders" will recognize the situation, even remember the plot.

James Franciscus played the hero, a man immune to the spell put on the villagers by visitors from another planet.

The series may go through a period of comparative inattention from viewers because it conflicts with NBC's Tuesday night movie. All three networks currently are broadcasting the cream of their feature film packages, a usual start-of-the-season practice. But as the season wears on and the lesser features turn up, "Movie of the Week" will look better and better.

CBS's uniformly rewarding

"60 Minutes" on Tuesday night started well with a roundtable discussion by a group of New Haven police officers after seeing a couple of short "stress films" showing fellow officers attempting to function under hostile conditions.

They told of personal reactions to abuse, insults and being called "pigs." Mostly it was anger, occasionally puzzlement. One officer told of being shrilled at by a boy and a few minutes later pulling the boy's foot out of a wheel where it was caught.

"I asked him did he still think I was a pig," the policeman related. He sounded hurt.

There was also a sympathetic portrait of William F. Buckley Jr., conservative columnist and editor.

Some footage showed Cuba's faltering economy.

The program has a tendency to concentrate on the serious side—some light notes occasionally would be welcome.

NBC has canceled "Life with Linkletter" and replaced it with "Words and Music," another in the parade of game shows which is the network's daytime specialty. The program will win no awards for originality, but it has finally found a way to bring a singing quartet and pop music into the format of a guessing game. Even so, it is a dreary way to kill a half hour.

Militant Student Demands Rejected By OSU Leaders

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University officials have announced rejection of militant student demands for admissions, curriculum and employment policies based on race.

The announcement corresponded with the start today of the fall quarter on the sprawling 45,000-student campus.

The university responded to 37 demands made by the Ad Hoc Committee for Student Rights before and during campus disorders last spring.

While agreeing that more black students should be given an opportunity to attend OSU, the administration rejected demands for:

—Establishment of an admissions policy based on race, creed or color.

GOP Chairman To Be Speaker At State Meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Republican National Chairman Rogers Morton will be the principal speaker at the state GOP convention here Oct. 8.

Morton will address a crowd of some 2,900 in the old Palace Theater and a television audience in the state's major cities.

Republican officials said plans call for brief speeches by Gov. James A. Rhodes, gubernatorial candidate Roger Cloud, U.S. Senate nominee Robert Taft Jr. and judicial and other statewide candidates.

The platform committee headed by Ohio Senate Majority Leader Ted Gray of Piqua will present the platform to delegates during the afternoon of the convention.

Final touches will be put to the platform following a public hearing here next Tuesday morning.

—Establishment of a segregated orientation program for blacks.

—Creation of jobs specifically for blacks or the use of a quota system in employing dormitory directors and advisers.

But the administration said it has implemented programs to seek additional scholarship funds as well as a specific program of support for minority students.

Officials said that Negroes have been appointed to two key positions in the athletic department, a number of other blacks have been added to the athletic staff, and five more blacks have been added to the campus police force.

The university said it would continue to guarantee opportunities for employment based solely on qualifications.

Created in response to student activism, officials said, were the office of vice provost for coordination of minority affairs, an affirmative action program to study employment and enrollment practices, and a Faculty Council committee on student representation on departmental committees.

Also rejected was a demand for amnesty for students who violated university or civil laws during last spring's demonstrations. The university refused to ask civil courts to drop charges against those arrested. Officials turned down a demand that armed law enforcement agencies be barred from the campus during disruptions, saying the university would not "relinquish its responsibility to provide protection to human life and property."

Other student demands still under study, the university said, include setting up a campus day-care center, coordinating planned parenthood activities through the student health service, assuring equality for women students in employment, salary and enrollment, and elimination of academic status and rank of ROTC faculty.

Elderly Respond To Environment

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Elder inmates at the New Mexico State Penitentiary received questionnaires as part of a national survey seeking to pinpoint the problems of older people.

One question asked: "Are you happy in the neighborhood where you live?"

The inmates, all over 55-year-old, laughed a bit then listed lack of transportation and income as major criticisms of their environment.

Monday A Blue, Blue Day For Cuyahoga's Sheriff

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff Ralph Kreiger drew the anger of a Common Pleas judge and had three more deputies

Agnew Raps Commission On Unrest

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Tuesday assailed the Presidential Commission on Campus Unrest, saying its failure to blame disrupters and their apologizers "will be taken as more pabulum for the permissiveness."

In the strongest criticism of the report yet from the Nixon administration, Agnew said it is "imprecise, contradictory and equivocal." Aides said the vice president's views did not necessarily represent the viewpoint of the White House, which has not yet commented.

The commission headed by former Republican Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania in its report issued Saturday laid the blame for campus unrest on many shoulders but said:

"Only the President has the platform and prestige to urge all Americans, at once, to step back from the battlelines into which they are forming."

Agnew's attack on the report came in a speech prepared for a Republican luncheon here, first stop on a three-day campaign trip by Agnew that takes him later to Minot, N.D., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

He also criticized North Dakota's junior senator, Democrat George S. McGovern as "one of the foremost national leaders of national liberalism—and its chief fund raiser today." He called on Democratic candidates to repudiate McGovern, who is not himself a candidate this year.

In discussing the Scranton commission report, Agnew denounced what he called "the self appointed interpreters and translators on the commission, and within the nation's 'academic journalistic complex,' who rushed before the cameras to sell us what it said."

Kreiger has had 32 deputies resign in two months because of low pay. He announced Friday that a 25 per cent pay increase would go into effect for deputies on Oct. 22.

Kreiger claimed that the loss of personnel and a priority on jail security was behind his problems Monday with Judge John T. Patton.

Kreiger has taken 14 men from other assignments, including two from Patton's courtroom, and placed them on jail duty.

Patton arrived to find none of the 17 prisoners scheduled for arraignment present, and asked Kreiger to get more deputies to aid the one on duty in getting the prisoners to the courtroom.

Kreiger ordered deputies from five other courtrooms into Patton's court, immobilizing the other courtrooms.

Patton's anger increased when he found that six prisoners were not available. Two had escaped from the Warrensville Workhouse and the other four were at the suburban facility rather than in the jail. Patton then found out that one 19-year-old prisoner was brought before him to answer to an indictment on a 47-year-old prisoner with the same name.

"I'm not going to tell the sheriff what his priorities are," Patton said, "but I would think men coming to trial and being arraigned is more important than deputies patrolling highways."

Patton said that Kreiger used six deputies to escort the 11 prisoners who showed up in the courtroom and that normally three deputies were used to escort as many as 40 prisoners to the court.

LETTERMEN — Fourteen lettermen have returned to bolster the Westfall Mustangs grid prospects for the season. Coach Bill Vance is counting on them to provide the nucleus of the squad and carry the hopes of the Scarlet and Gray.

Schools Battle In League Frays

Important Tilts Set For County Gridders

Action in the county Friday night will find Logan Elm at Westfall in a battle of county rivals and Teays Valley will be at Franklin Heights to open its Metropolitan League competition.

"We just didn't play ball at Piketon," Westfall Coach Bill Vance stated, "and there will be some changes in our lineup this week."

"We made too many mistakes," Vance continued, "and didn't give an all out effort. We have been working hard all week and it will be a different team against Logan Elm. We used our freshman and sophomores in the second half of the Piketon game and they showed us they want to play so they'll get their chance Friday night."

The Mustangs will stay with their pro type offense which has moved the ball for them and will use the 5-2 defense in the contest.

INJURIES are still hampering the Westfall team with Mike Sines out with a kidney injury, Craig Liston is still hurt and will not see action this week and Mike Stonerock is out with a broken leg.

Team leader Ron Greenwood's knee has responded to treatment better than expected and he may be able to go against the Braves. This would help the Mustangs as Greenwood is the take charge guy on the club.

Defensive alignment is not set with the Mustangs and it may be Friday before the defense is named.

Freshman Dave Shannon will be the signal caller, Dave Eitel, sophomore, will be at halfback, sophomore Gary Underwood will be the flanker and Steve Nevil, senior, will be at the fullback post.

THE Mustangs are 1-2 for the season. They won their opener against Berne Union but have dropped contests to Madison South and Piketon.

The Logan Elm coaching staff is planning some changes after watching films of the Braves' 49-0 loss to Teays Valley last Friday.

One change is necessitated by the loss of Brad Barr for the season. The veteran junior defensive end broke both bones

He is the only casualty of the season for Logan Elm. Replacing Barr will be either Steve Curtis or Jim Fox. Both have been playing linebacker.

In other defensive changes planned by Ray Mowery, defensive coordinator for the Logan Elm squad, Mike Hupp will be moved from tackle to linebacker, Tim Speakman will be a starting linebacker for the Braves, Steve Fischer will take over the number one defensive safety position, Dale Valentine will be shifted from the offensive tackle spot to the defensive guard position. Mike Williams should see a lot of defensive line action also.

In an attempt to improve the offensive line blocking, Ken Dean, a defensive guard and offensive fullback, will be moved to tackle and Steve Pusey will take over the duties of center.

HEAD coach Bob Sant'ant also hinted that some changes in the backfield may be forthcoming if his squad doesn't get a couple of touchdowns on the scoreboard by halftime.

Starters for the Braves in the backfield will be Jim Fox at fullback, John Weaver and Steve Curtis at halfbacks and Punk Jones at quarterback. Chuck Karshner and Alex Jones will be the ends, Ken Dean and Don Dean a brother combination at the tackles, John Stant and Mike Williams at guards and Pusey at center.

Stant plans to stick with his power game from the 1 formation. The Braves' coaching staff believes it can halt Westfall's running game.

Logan Elm has not won a game since Oct. 18, 1968, when the Braves blanked Pikeon, 22-0. Since then they have lost 15 consecutive games.

Coach Dick Kidwell will take his Teays Valley team to Franklin Heights for an encounter with the always tough Falcons.

It will open the Metropolitan League play for the Vikings who have a club that can make a solid run for the league crown and just might take it all.

Chuck Frazier, the Vikings' tough guard, has been hampered by a head injury and may not see action this week. Jim Partee has a shoulder injury

but is expected to be ready by Friday.

"We came out of the Logan Elm game in good shape," Coach Kidwell offered, "and are ready for Franklin Heights. We want the Metro championship and the Falcons are the first step for us."

The Vikings have been plagued by fumbles and are working hard to correct this. They were guilty of playing slippery football four times in the Circleville game and lost the pigskin six times against Logan Elm.

Its power offense has been quite successful this season and the Teays Valley backs have been averaging seven yards per carry in their first three games.

"Our defense has shown vast improvement," Kidwell said, "and is better than we had hoped for earlier in the season."

"FRANKLIN Heights has two fine backs in Carmichael and Toney," Coach Kidwell continued, "and we are setting our defenses to attempt to contain them. They have a good passer and are noted for speed and quickness."

Offensively the Vikings will go with Steve Hines and Jeff Helsar at the ends with Bob Browning and Jack Brinker manning the tackle posts.

Rob Archer will be at one guard and Howard Reed and Jim Partee will share the other spot. Keith Archer will anchor the center of the line.

Stan Clay will do the quarterbacking, Ron Crosby will be at fullback, Bob Tucker at halfback and Champ Henson will run from the tailback position.

Defensively it will be Henson and Scott Barr at the ends, Brinker and Rob Archer at the tackles with Terry McDaniel at middle guard.

Tucker and Crosby will be linebacks, Steve Hines and Jeff Elman at the halfbacks. Ray Good at safety and Helsar will be the rover back.

The Vikings are 2-1 for the season. They blasted Bishop Wehrle and Logan Elm and their only loss came at the hands of the undefeated Circleville Tigers.

Slo Pitch Tourney

Washington C. H. Sertoma Club will hold a slow pitch softball tournament in Washington C. H. beginning Oct. 3.

It will be a double elimination tournament and drawings will be held Oct. 1.

Interested teams should contact Jim Emrick, 442 Albin Ave., Washington C. H., phone 335-5828.

Pirates Drop Cards, 7-2

Rookie McQueen Leads Braves Over Cincinnati, 2-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rookie Braves pitcher, Mike McQueen, up just two weeks from Richmond, Va., recorded his first major league win Tuesday night over the National League western division champion Reds, 2-1.

"I really wanted to beat them," said the young southpaw who turned 20 years-old four weeks ago. He is now 1-5.

"It was the first time I went nine innings since I was 12 years old."

"I feel like if I can beat a team like the Reds I can beat anybody," said McQueen who gave up seven hits.

Luman Harris, the Atlanta manager, said McQueen proved that he has a chance to make the Braves' starting lineup next year.

McQueen and Felix Millan each poked singles to knock in the two winning runs in the seventh inning off Tony Cloninger, 97.

The Reds threatened in the eighth inning loading the bases with no one out and Tony Perez at the plate.

"I jammed him with a fast ball and that was the big out," said McQueen. Perez popped out to the catcher.

"I used a change up on Bench," John Bench fouled out to Mike Lum in left field but a run scored on the play, Cincinnati's only score.

Lee May then unloaded a hard fly to left but it died and Mike Lum caught it to end the threat.

"It must have been the cold damp air," said May. "I've hit others out that didn't feel that good."

The Reds play the Braves Thursday night for the final game of the series before the National League playoffs open Saturday at Pittsburgh.

double that snapped a 1-1 tie in a four-run Pirates' eighth inning. The Pirates, who clinched the East title Sunday, ran their winning streak to five in a row.

McQueen, a rookie left-hander, stopped the Reds on seven hits for his first complete game in the majors. He is 1-5, ending Cincinnati's two-game winning string.

In other NL games, the New York Mets stopped Chicago 3-1, Montreal routed Philadelphia 10-3, Houston trimmed San Francisco 3-1 and Los Angeles whipped San Diego 8-2.

May, a rookie catcher recently recalled from the Pirates' Columbus farm club, helped send Gibson to his seventh loss with his double to right. Gibson has won 23 games this season and is a leading contender for the Cy Young Award.

The veteran right-hander, however, snapped a club strikeout mark. He has 274 for the season, erasing his own record of 270. Richie Hebner slammed a two-run homer for the Pirates in the ninth.

Luke Walker, Pittsburgh's curvballing lefty, went the first six innings, allowing one run in his final tune-up before the best of 5 playoff opens in Pittsburgh Saturday.

Since the All-Star break the Pirates have won 39 and lost 32 games while the Reds, who ran away with the West title early, have a 38-35 mark in the same span.

McQueen also blooped a hit, driving in the Braves first run in a two-run seventh before Felix Millan knocked in another with a single. John Bench rapped a sacrifice fly in the eighth for the Reds' run.

Jerry Koonsman tossed a seven hitter and Donn Clendenon drove in a pair of runs with a double as the Mets moved past the Cubs by one game into the second spot in the East. Both clubs have two games remaining with each other.

John Bateman drove in four runs with a double and homer and winning pitcher Steve Renko knocked in two runs with a double in the Expos rout. Bob Bailey added his 28th homer for Montreal while Deron Johnson had two RBIs or the Phils.

Denis Menke ripped three hits, including a triple and drove in two runs as the Astros moved to their fifth straight triumph. The loss dropped the Giants one-half game behind the Los Angeles Dodgers in their second-place West battle.

Maury Wills keyed a four-run Dodger sixth inning with a two-run single as Sandy Vance, with relief from Pete Mikkelsen, won his seventh game.

Herb Orvis Top Lineman

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Since Coach Eddie Crowder found Herb Orvis not far from the Berlin Wall, it's only right that the big defensive end should be part of the University of Colorado's wall.

And as far as Penn State is concerned, the 6-foot-5, 230-pound junior from Petoskey, Mich., could just as well have made the Army a career.

Although Penn State ran most of its plays away from Orvis' defensive right end position, he still managed to make 12 tackles, four of them unassisted, as Colorado drubbed the fourth-ranked Nittany Lions 41-13. Three of the tackles were behind the line of scrimmage for losses totaling 15 yards.

In the second half, when Penn State had a first down on the Colorado six, Orvis was in on two key stops and later, from the 12, he harassed quarterback Mike Cooper into two incomplete passes.

For that performance, Orvis was named National College Lineman of the Week by The Associated Press.

The smallest person ever to play major league baseball was Eddie Gaedel. He was 3-foot-7 and weighed 65 pounds.

EASY (CHAIR) DOES IT — Manager Danny Murtaugh rocked his way through the long season in this chair before and after each game and now he can rest easy for a few days as his Pittsburgh Pirates have won the East division title of the National League pennant chase and take on the Reds for the N.L. flag. Murtaugh suffered a heart attack six years ago and retired, then came back.

Expect Pitching To Be Key In Reds-Pirates Playoffs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cincinnati and Pittsburgh are both known for their offensive weapons. But when the National League playoffs open this weekend at Three Rivers Stadium, pitching should be the key.

Pittsburgh's pitching has suddenly blossomed after mid-season injuries hit the staff.

During the last 17 games, Pirate pitchers have allowed only 40 runs—35 earned—for an earned-run average of 2.30. The opposition has been held to one or less runs in six games and has scored more than three runs in just three of them.

The Reds, on the other hand, have won eight of their last 10 games, but have not had one complete game.

Gary Nolan, 18-7, recently the steadiest pitcher for the Reds, will start against the Pirates' Dock Ellis, 13-10, who won Sunday's game against New York that clinched the title for Pittsburgh.

Jim Merritt of the Reds, who was hit on the elbow three weeks ago and had been sidelined, pitched three innings last week. If he is healthy he is expected to start the second game against Luke Walker. The left-hander has become the "reliable one" of the Pirate pitching corps. He is 15-6. Merritt, with a 20-12 record, is the first 20-game winner Cincinnati has had since 1925.

The Reds are a better slug-ging club than the Pirates but the two teams are nearly even in batting percentage. The Pirates are hitting .269, the Reds .271.

Red catcher Johnny Bench is batting .294, has a league-leading 45 home runs and 147 runs batted in, also tops in the league.

Pete Rose leads the Reds in batting with a .318 average and Tony Perez is hitting .315 with 40 home runs and 129 RBIs.

Roberto Clement, who will miss the St. Louis series this week to undergo more back treatment in Pittsburgh, should be ready for the playoffs. He's not eligible for the batting title this year because he has too few times at bat—but his average is .350.

Manny Sanguillen, the Pirate catcher, is batting .326, third in the league. Willie Stargell, Al Oliver and Bob Robertson are the RBI leaders on the Pirates. Stargell has 85, Oliver 82 and Robertson 81.

Both clubs will rely on their bullpens. The Pirates have Dave Giusti with a 9-3 record and 26 saves.

Meet The Braves

LETTERMEN — Fourteen lettermen have returned to bolster the Westfall Mustangs grid prospects for the season. Coach Bill Vance is counting on them to provide the nucleus of the squad and carry the hopes of the Scarlet and Gray.

Schools Battle In League Frays

Important Tilts Set For County Gridders

Action in the county Friday night will find Logan Elm at Westfall in a battle of county rivals and Teays Valley will be at Franklin Heights to open its Metropolitan League competition.

"We just didn't play ball at Picketon," Westfall Coach Bill Vance stated, "and there will be some changes in our lineup this week."

"We made too many mistakes," Vance continued, "and didn't give an all out effort. We have been working hard all week and it will be a different team against Logan Elm. We used our freshman and sophomores in the second half of the Picketon game and they showed us they want to play so they'll get their chance Friday night."

The Mustangs will stay with their pro type offense which has moved the ball for them and will use the 5-2 defense in the contest.

INJURIES are still hampering the Westfall team with Mike Sines out with a kidney injury, Craig Liston is still hurt and will not see action this week and Mike Stonerock is out with a broken leg.

Team leader Ron Gerenwood's knee has responded to treatment better than expected and he may be able to go against the Braves. This would help the Mustangs as Greenwood is the take charge guy on the club.

Defensive alignment is not set with the Mustangs and it may be Friday before the defense is named.

Freshman Dave Shannon will be the signal caller, Dave Eitel, sophomore, will be at halfback, sophomore Gary Underwood will be the flanker and Steve Nevil, senior, will be at the fullback post.

THE Mustangs are 1-2 for the season. They won their opener against Berne Union but have dropped contests to Madison South and Picketon.

The Logan Elm coaching staff is planning some changes after watching films of the Braves' 49-0 loss to Teays Valley last Friday.

One change is necessitated by the loss of Brad Barr for the season. The veteran junior defensive end broke both bones

He is the only casualty of the season for Logan Elm. Replacing Barr will be either Steve Curtis or Jim Fox. Both have been playing linebacker.

In other defensive changes planned by Ray Mowery, defensive coordinator for the Logan Elm squad, Mike Hupp will be moved from tackle to linebacker, Tim Speakman will be a starting linebacker for the Braves, Steve Fischer will take over the number one defensive safety position, Dale Valentine will be shifted from the offensive tackle spot to the defensive guard position. Mike Williams should see a lot of defensive line action also.

In an attempt to improve the offensive line blocking, Ken Dean, a defensive guard and offensive fullback, will be moved to tackle and Steve Pusey will take over the duties of center.

HEAD coach Bob S'ant also hinted that some changes in the backfield may be forthcoming if his squad doesn't get a couple of touchdowns on the scoreboard by halftime.

Starters for the Braves in the backfield will be Jim Fox at fullback, John Weaver and Steve Curtis at halfbacks and Punk Jones at quarterback. Chuck Karshner and Alex Jones will be the ends, Ken Dean and Don Dean a brother combination at the tackles, John Stant and Mike Williams at guards and Pusey at center.

Stant plans to stick with his power game from the I formation. The Braves' coaching staff believes it can halt Westfall's running game.

Logan Elm has not won a game since Oct. 18, 1968, when the Braves blanked Picketon, 22-0. Since then they have lost 15 consecutive games.

Coach Dick Kidwell will take his Teays Valley team to Franklin Heights for an encounter with the always tough Falcons.

IT will open the Metropolitan League play for the Vikings who have a club that can make a solid run for the league crown and just might take it all.

Chuck Frazier, the Vikings' tough guard, has been hampered by a head injury and may not see action this week. Jim Partee has a shoulder injury

but is expected to be ready by Friday.

"We came out of the Logan Elm game in good shape," Coach Kidwell offered, "and are ready for Franklin Heights. We want the Metro championship and the Falcons are the first step for us."

The Vikings have been plagued by fumbles and are working hard to correct this. They were guilty of playing sloppy football four times in the Circleville game and lost the pigskin six times against Logan Elm.

Its power offense has been quite successful this season and the Teays Valley backs have been averaging seven yards per carry in their first three games.

"Our defense has shown vast improvement," Kidwell said, "and is better than we had hoped for earlier in the season."

"FRANKLIN Heights has two fine backs in Carmichael and Toney," Coach Kidwell continued, "and we are setting our defenses to attempt to contain them. They have a good passer and are noted for speed and quickness."

Offensively the Vikings will go with Steve Hines and Jeff Helsar at the ends with Bob Browning and Jack Brinker manning the tackle posts.

Rob Archer will be at one guard and Howard Reed and Jim Partee will share the other spot. Keith Archer will anchor the center of the line.

Stan Clay will do the quarterbacking, Ron Crosby will be at fullback, Bob Tucker at halfback and Champ Henson will run from the tailback position.

Defensively it will be Henson and Scott Barr at the ends, Brinker and Rob Archer at the tackles with Terry McDaniel at middle guard.

Tucker and Crosby will be linebacks, Steve Hines and Jeff Elman at the halfbacks, Ray Good at safety and Helsar will be the rover back.

The Vikings are 2-1 for the season. They blasted Bishop Wehrle and Logan Elm and their only loss came at the hands of the undefeated Circleville Tigers.

Slo Pitch Tourney

Washington C. H. Sertoma Club will hold a slow pitch softball tournament in Washington C. H. beginning Oct. 3.

It will be a double elimination tournament and drawings will be held Oct. 1.

Interested teams should contact Jim Emrick, 442 Albin Ave., Washington C. H., phone 335-5828.

Pirates Drop Cards, 7-2

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
Rookie Mike May kept the newly crowned National League East champion Pittsburgh Pirates sizzling while newcomer Mike McQueen cooled Cincinnati

the runaway West winners, gaining his first major league triumph.

May keyed Pittsburgh's 7-2 victory over Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals Tuesday night, drilling a two-run pinch double that snapped a 1-1 tie in a four-run Pirates' eighth inning. The Pirates, who clinched the East title Sunday, ran their winning streak to five in a row.

McQueen, a rookie left-hander, stopped the Reds on seven hits for his first complete game in the majors. He is 1-5, ending Cincinnati's two-game winning string.

Niles McKinley, Massillon Clash In Game Of Week

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Bob Shaw coaches Niles McKinley again and that could spell trouble for Massillon, Ohio's No. 1 Class AAA football team, in the state's high school game of the week.

Massillon and fifth-ranked Niles match strategy in an All-America Conference contest at Niles Saturday night.

The Tigers have whipped Niles 8 of 10 times. The only times they have lost have been when Shaw was guiding the Red Dragons—33-20 last year and a 20-12 decision in 1966 that broke a 32-game Massillon winning streak.

Shaw returned from a Bucknell University coaching stint last year.

It should be a duel between the passing of Niles' Allen Cimenero and the Massillon ground thrust led by 190-pound, halfback Mike Mauger. Each team is off to a 3-0 start.

Mauger has 11 touchdowns and 510 rushing yards, including punt returns of 79 and 70 yards and runs of 89 and 80 yards for Tiger scores.

Around the state: Youngstown South, which has not scored in two losses, spilled two-year Youngstown king Chaney 18-0 with only one first down. South intercepted five passes, ran a punt back 62 yards for a touchdown and covered three Chaney fumbles.

Glenwood beat Oakwood in a Canton suburban game 13-8, running back fumble pickups 85 and 47 yards for the touchdowns. Minerva end Ron Hart a converted halfback, has scored a trio of extra points and a 51-yard TD on end around plays.

Portsmouth West running ace Dave Hamilton is the reigning state champion in the Class A 100 and 220-yard dashes. His mate, Terry Gardner led that area in scoring with 154 points last season.

Granville's Dave Piper, son of Denison Football Coach Keith Piper, booted a 37-yard field goal last week. Mark Thomas of Millersport scored all of his team's points in a 23-14 victory over Fairfield Union. He has 70 points in three games.

Newark Catholic can establish a Class A state record of 37 straight triumphs this week against Heath. Rod Geier of Cincinnati CountryDay scored six TDs against Williamsburg and has 80 points so far.

Marionport Coach Larry Lyons has his team practice field goals for eight years on Thursday nights and never attempted one until last week. Tackle Jeff Proctor's 14-yarder beat Maderia 9-6.

Tuscarawas Catholic, a consolidation of Dennison St. Mary and Dover St. Joseph, has 62 of its 100 male students playing football. Art Teynor, the former Dover St. Joe mentor, coaches the Saints, who play their home games at Dennison.

LOST TO BROWNS? — Bill Nelson, quarterback of the Cleveland Browns, is out with a recurring knee injury suffered in the recent loss to San Francisco, dimming the Browns' hopes.

Bill Nelson Not Ready To Retire

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns quarterback Bill Nelson, injured in Sunday's 34-31 loss to the San Francisco 49ers, tossed aside his wife's comments that he should retire and says he intends to continue in pro football.

Nelson, who sprained his right knee and has suffered from knee problems much of his pro career, said: "My hope is to get back for the game a week from Sunday. Whether I make it then or ever I just don't know yet."

Meanwhile, the Browns were preparing for the Saturday night game against the Pittsburgh Steelers here, using Don Gault to fill in for Nelson and Purdue ace Mike Phipps as Gault's backup.

"I don't want him to play football anymore," Susan Nelson said of her husband Monday. "He knows how I feel. I've talked to him about it. I'd like to be a normal housewife."

"Waiting for the inevitable is unsettling," she said. "It's like waiting for the hatchet."

But Nelson, who has had all the cartilage removed from both knees because of previous football injuries, kidded after his wife's comments were published that: "Maybe I'll take Sue dancing tonight and give the dance a test."

"Guess she just got filled up listening to me talk about all my ailments and I can't blame her. In addition to the knees this year, I've had bruised ribs and an infected ear."

Other injuries in the 49ers game have forced some changes in the Browns practice plans. Fullbacks Bo Scott and Steve Engel have leg trouble and half-back Reece Morrison moved into the position, teaming with Leroy Kelly.

MacArthur Lane Tops On Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — When they asked MacArthur Lane of the St. Louis Cardinals to explain his running success against Washington, he said dadidly, "I'm a pretty big back. For them, it was like 'rying to hold a greased pig.'"

Lane, the Cards' No. 1 draft in 1968 but only a part-time performer in two injury-plagued years, came into his own Sunday with 146 rushing yards against Washington. He gained a total of only 167 yards rushing in his two previous years.

The spectacular performance of the 28-year-old former Utah State back who also scored two touchdowns in a 27-17 victory over the Redskins earned him recognition by the Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

"When there's no daylight, you try to find daylight," Lane told staffer Paul Le Bar in St. Louis. "When you're hit, you put your head in a swivel. The only time you're supposed to lower your head is as a last resort."

Steve Hargan Stops Tigers With 5-2 Win

DETROIT (AP) — After a nearly three year wait Cleveland manager Al Dark has finally seen pitcher Steve Hargan hit stride.

Detroit manager Mayo Smith, meanwhile, may never have the chance to see pitcher Mickey Lolich regain stride.

If the persistent and loud rumors are true, Thursday will be Smith's last day as a Tiger manager.

Lolich didn't aid Mayo's agonizing final days of the 1970 season as he lost his 19th game—the same number he won last year—as the Indians beat the Tigers 5-2 Tuesday night behind Hargan's pitching.

But if it's any consolation, it is just about impossible for Lolich to be a 20-game loser unless he gets a loss in relief in either today's or Thursday's final games.

Jim Rittwage, (1-0) was expected to pitch for Cleveland today against Bob Reed, (1-4).

As one observer said: "The Tigers always gave Lolich a start when he was trying to win 20, so why not give him an extra chance to lose 20?"

They may have a pessimistic ring to it, but it's easy to see how someone can be pessimistic about the Tigers — they have now lost 11 of their last 12, including four straight.

If the Indians sweep the final two games they will finish fourth in the American League East and drop Detroit to fifth. When someone asked Dark if he would break out the champagne in that case he laughed.

Hargan, meanwhile, was having an ice pack routinely bandaged to his right shoulder after he scattered seven hits in his complete game performance which upped his record to 11-3. He is 10-1 since after the All-Star break when he returned from a five-week stay at Cleveland's Wichita farm club. Before that he was on the 21-day disabled list with arm trouble.

The 1970 United States Track and Field Federation cross country championship will be held at Penn State, University Park, Pa., Nov. 25.

Royals Defeat Twins In 12; Win Game, 14-13

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bill Rigney got more punch in the Minnesota offense by platooning his platooners, but the Twins still came up short — by an extra point.

Rigney's Twins wasted a 27-man effort Tuesday when they bowed to the Kansas City Royals 14-13 on a run-scoring single in the 12th inning by relief pitcher Ted Abernathy.

The Royals pressed 22 players into action as the two clubs set an all-time manpower mark. The previous record of 48 was set by the New York Giants and

Plunkett Replaces Sixkiller On Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Senior Jim Plunkett of Stanford has replaced sophomore Sonny Sixkiller of Washington as the national leader in total offense, according to National Collegiate Sports Services.

Plunkett is averaging 302.3 rushing-passing yards a game and ranks fourth on the all-time yards in his remaining eight regular-season games to reach the top.

Sixkiller, with 148 yards against Michigan, dropped completely out of the top 10 leaders, although he still ranks eighth in passing.

Chicago Cubs in a 1956 game.

"It seems like quite a while since we've gotten a lot of runs," Rigney had complained Monday night after the Twins nipped the Royals 1-0 on a squeeze bunt.

The Minnesota attack promptly came alive with a barrage of 20 hits—five of them by shortstop Lea Cardenas, but the Royals matched the Twins' hit total and topped them in the scoring column when Abernathy connected against rookie Pete Hamm, Rigney's sixth pitcher.

The Baltimore Orioles, who take on the Twins Saturday in the opener of the American League pennant playoffs, swept a doubleheader from hapless Washington 3-2 in 10 innings and 3-2 in 11. Boston overcame the New York Yankees 5-4; Cleveland trimmed Detroit 5-2; California pounded the Chicago White Sox 9-2 and Oakland edged Milwaukee 4-3.

The Twins took a 9-5 lead into the ninth inning, but the Royals exploded for six runs—Ed Kirkpatrick sending them ahead with a two-run double.

Cardenas' run-scoring single keyed a tying Minnesota rally in the bottom of the ninth and he drove in two more with a single in the 11th after the Royals had taken a 13-11 lead in the top half.

The visitors then pushed over the winner on a walk and singles by Bill Sorrell and Abernathy, their seventh pitcher.

Mark Belanger's sacrifice fly in the 10th inning of the opener and Frank Robinson's pinch double in the 11th of the nightcap delivered the winning runs for the Orioles, who have won nine consecutive games five of them in overtime.

The Senators have lost 12 in a row.

Mike Cuellar worked eight innings in the opener in a final tune-up for the Orioles' starting role in the opener with the Twins at Minnesota Saturday.

Carl Yastrzemski's third hit, a run-scoring single in the ninth, capped a three-run Boston comeback and hiked his average to a league-high .329.

handed Mickey Lolich, a 19-game winner last season, his 19th setback.

Bill Nelson Not Ready To Retire

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns quarterback Bill Nelsen, injured in Sunday's 34-31 loss to the San Francisco 49ers, tossed aside his wife's comments that he should retire and says he intends to continue in pro football.

Nelsen, who sprained his right knee and has suffered from knee problems much of his pro career, said: "My hope is to get back for the game a week from Sunday. Whether I make it then or ever I just don't know yet."

Meanwhile, the Browns were preparing for the Saturday night game against the Pittsburgh Steelers here, using Don Gault to fill in for Nelsen and Purdue ace Mike Phipps as Gault's backup.

Stanford, Irish, Kansas State Picked As Winners

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Stanford, Notre Dame and Kansas State are the picks this week to get revenge for past indignities at the hands of Purdue, Michigan State and Colorado.

Elsewhere, Penn State should start a new winning streak while Alabama and Mississippi will try to repeat last year's national television thriller, which saw all sorts of records set as Alabama sneaked through 33-32.

Purdue at Stanford—Mike Phipps passed Purdue to 15 points in the last period a year ago, including a two-point conversion with three minutes left, and a 36-35 come-from-behind victory. The shoe should be on the other foot this time if Stanford can avoid looking ahead to Southern California, its next opponent Stanford.

Notre Dame at Michigan State—The Irish have traveled to East Lansing nine times since their last victory there in 1949. Eight times they came home losers and the other was that fabled 10-10 tie in 1966, which Notre Dame wants to forget but no one will let them.

This is where it all ends, even though Duffy Daugherty is 10-4-1 against . . . Notre Dame.

Colorado at Kansas State—What can Colorado do for an encore after ending Penn State's long unbeaten streak? Would you believe a loss? The Wildcats, who have lost five in a row and 19 of 25 to Colorado, sat quarterback Lynn Dickey and his injured rib cage out of last week's loss to Arizona State but he's ready to go. Kansas State.

Penn State at Wisconsin—One week ago the Nittany Lions had an unbeaten string of 31 games and a winning streak of 23. Now it's 0 and 0. Prediction is 1 and 1 coming up. Penn State.

Alabama at Mississippi—If the Rebels aren't up for this game, they'll never be up. Besides last year's heart-breaker, Ole Miss has an all-time record of 3-22-2 against the Crimson Tide. Archie Manning of Ole Miss and Bama's Scott Hunter filled the air with football last year as 24 national, Southeastern Conference and team records were established. Manning completed 33 of 52 for 436 yards and his total offense of 540 yards was the second biggest in college football history. Hunter was 22 or 29 for 300 yards. It'll all be on ABC-TV (9:30 p.m., EDT) and the pick is . . . Mississippi.

Duke at Ohio State — Although Leo Hart is the nation's passing leader, Duke has found points hard to come by. On the other hand, Ohio State ripped off 415 yards on the ground and 56 points in walloping Texas A&M. Ohio State, it is.

UCLA at Texas—Can Dennis Dummit pass the Bruins to a fourth straight victory? No. Texas.

Oregon State at Southern California—The Trojans may be looking right through the Beavers to Stanford. They also may run right through them. Southern Cal.

Nebraska at Minnesota—The Cornhuskers start their Big Eight campaign a week from Saturday against Missouri. The Gophers should be tough, as Minnesota teams usually are, but not tough enough. Nebraska.

Texas A&M at Michigan—Ohio State brought the Aggies back to earth after their upset of Louisiana State and Michigan should bury them a little deeper.

Ky Given Invitation To Visit U.S. After Nov. 3 Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials say South Viet Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky is being given an invitation by the Nixon administration for a red-carpet visit to the United States later this year — probably after the Nov. 3 elections. Although no announcement of the invitation has been made, sources said the new invitation materialized after Ky disclosed Saturday he had changed his mind and would not address the Rev. Carl McIntire's "march for victory" here this weekend. McIntire, the fundamentalist New Jersey radio preacher, angrily denounced what he called a "monstrous conspiracy reaching up to the very top levels of the government" to keep Ky from the rally.

Ky, however, said with a smile it was "not quite true" the Nixon administration tried hard to discourage him from coming here.

Administration officials made little effort to disguise their relief that Ky was not coming. Security agents already had been assigned to what was shaping up as a confrontation between Vietnam war supporters and antiwar demonstrators at rival rallies.

The White House and State Department declined comment on Ky's private visit, but there were many hints Ky would find developments at the peace negotiations in Paris sufficiently important to keep him there, rather than to come to the United States at this time.

Upon learning Ky had called off his plans to fly here this week, leaders of the counter-demonstration canceled their rally.

Ky announced Sept. 3 he would come to Washington Oct. 3 for the private visit. But he changed his mind, apparently as a result of a Paris meeting Friday with Bui Diem, South Vietnam's ambassador to the United States.

The Vietnamese envoy had flown from Washington to Paris last Thursday carrying word that the security problem was going to be a difficult one.

State Department officials who have dealt with Ky say he is a patriotic nationalist and once he became convinced that his coming here was bad for his country and would make it more difficult for the Nixon administration to support the Vietnamese cause, he realized it would not be wise to come at this time.

It was pointed out that any message Ky would have for the American people most likely would be lost in the violence of the demonstrations.

Nixon Urges College Chiefs To Study Letter By Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has urged college administrators to outline to students J. Edgar Hoover's views on avoiding campus trouble.

Nixon sent administrators a letter in which the FBI director listed eight tactics employed by campus extremists to lure students into their activities. The President called Hoover's letter "a cogent and enlightening analysis" of extremist tactics and urged college presidents to get the message to students.

In the letter, Hoover said the campus situation may be serious at some institutions but added: "Along with millions of other adults, I'm betting on the vast majority of students to remain fair-minded, tolerant, inquisitive, but also firm about certain basic principles of human dignity, respect for the rights of others and a willingness to learn."

Here are the eight extremist tactics listed by the FBI director:

—"They'll encourage you to lose respect for your parents and the older generation."
—"They'll try to convert you to the idea that your college is 'irrelevant' and a 'tool of the establishment.'"

—"They'll ask you to abandon your basic common sense."
—"They'll try to envelop you in a mood of negativism, pessimism and alienation toward yourself, your school, your nation."

—"They'll encourage you to disrespect the law and hate the law enforcement officer."
—"They'll tell you that any action is honorable and right if it's sincere or idealistic in motivation."

—"They'll ask you to believe that you, as a student and citizen, are powerless by democratic means to effect change in our society."
—"They'll encourage you to hurl bricks and stones instead of logical argument at those who disagree with your views."

KSU Notes 'Think Week'

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Novelist James A. Michener and advocates of consumer crusader Ralph Nadar have urged Kent State University students to become involved in finding ways to help change society by working within existing frameworks.

Nichener and Nadar's Raiders were on campus Tuesday as part of the student government sponsored "Think Week," designed to help students learn of ways to bring about change without using violence. The theme of the week is "Power to the Peaceful."

Nadar's aids challenged the university to become a national center for student involvement in government affairs. Eric Moore of Findlay, an Ohio State University law student with the group, said that because of the campus disturbances in May in which four students were slain and nine others were wounded the world is interested in the reopening of the university—an event that otherwise would go unnoticed.

Michener, who is doing research for a book on the May 4 student confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen in which the student deaths occurred, told a gathering of Kent students and faculty that a democracy cannot exist without universities.

He said he was "worried about the future of American education" and added that the closing of 760 American universities and colleges following the sayings was "almost a defeat of reason."

Stanford, Irish, Kansas State Picked As Winners

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Stanford, Notre Dame and Kansas State are the picks this week to get revenge for past indignities at the hands of Purdue, Michigan State and Colorado.

Elsewhere, Penn State should start a new winning streak while Alabama and Mississippi will try to repeat last year's national television thriller, which saw all sorts of records set as Alabama sneaked through 33-32.

Purdue at Stanford—Mike
Phipps passed Purdue to 15 points in the last period a year ago, including a two-point conversion with three minutes left, and a 36-35 come-from-behind victory. The shoe should be on the other foot this time if Stanford can avoid looking ahead to Southern California, its next opponent Stanford.

Notre Dame at Michigan State—The Irish have traveled to East Lansing nine times since their last victory there in 1949. Eight times they came home losers and the other was that fabled 10-10 tie in 1966, which Notre Dame wants to forget but no one will let them.

This is where it all ends, even though Duffy Daugherty is 10-4-1 against... Notre Dame.

Colorado at Kansas State—What can Colorado do for an encore after ending Penn State's long unbeaten streak? Would you believe a loss? The Wildcats, who have lost five in a row and 19 of 25 to Colorado, sat quarterback Lynn Dickey and his injured rib cage out of last week's loss to Arizona State but he's ready to go, Kansas State.

Penn State at Wisconsin—One week ago the Nittany Lions had an unbeaten string of 31 games and a winning streak of 23. Now it's 0 and 0. Prediction is 1 and 1 coming up, Penn State.

Alabama at Mississippi—If the Rebels aren't up for this game, they'll never be up. Besides last year's heart-breaker, Ole Miss has an all-time record of 3-22-2 against the Crimson Tide. Archie Manning of Ole Miss and 'Bama's Scott Hunter filled the air with football last year as 24 national, Southeastern Conference and team records were established. Manning completed 33 of 52 for 436 yards and his total offense of 540 yards was the second biggest in college football history.

Hunter was 22 or 29 for 300 yards. It'll all be on ABC-TV (9:30 p.m., EDT) and the pick is ... Mississippi.

Duke at Ohio State — Although Leo Hart is the nation's passing leader, Duke has found points hard to come by. On the other hand, Ohio State ripped off 415 yards on the ground and 56 points in walloping Texas
A&M, Ohio State, it is.

UCLA at Texas—Can Dennis Dummit pass the Bruins to a fourth straight victory? No, Texas.

Oregon State at Southern California—The Trojans may be looking right through the Bearers to Stanford. They also may run right through them. Southern Cal.

Nebraska at Minnesota—The Cornhuskers start their Big Eight campaign a week from Saturday against Missouri. The Gophers should be tough, as Minnesota teams usually are,
but not tough enough, Nebraska.

Texas A&M at Michigan—Ohio State brought the Aggies back to earth after their upset of Louisiana State and Michigan should bury them a little deeper.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials say South Viet Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky is being given an invitation by the Nixon administration for a red-carpet visit to the United States la-ter this year — probably after the

Nov. 3 elections.

Although no announcement of the invitation has been made, sources said the new invitation materialized after Ky disclosed Saturday he had changed his mind and would not address the Rev. Carl McIntire's "march for victory" here this weekend.

McIntire, the fundamentalist
New Jersey radio preacher, angrily denounced what he called a "monstrous conspiracy reaching up to the very top levels of the government" to keep Ky from the rally.

Ky, however, said with a smile it was "not quite true" the Nixon administration tried hard to discourage him from coming here.

Administration officials made little effort to disguise their relief that Ky was not coming. Security agents already had been assigned to what was shaping up as a confrontation between Vietnam war supporters and antiwar demonstrators at rival rallies.

The White House and State Department declined comment on Ky's private visit, but there were many hints Ky would find developments in the peace negotiations in Paris sufficiently important to keep him there, rather than to come to the United States at this time.

Upon learning Ky had called off his plans to fly here this week, leaders of the counter-demonstration canceled their rally.

Ky announced Sept. 3 he would come to Washington Oct.
3 for the private visit. But he changed his mind, apparently as a result of a Paris meeting
Friday with Bui Diem, South Vietnam's ambassador to the United States.

The Vietnamese envoy had flown from Washington to Paris last Thursday carrying word that the security problem was going to be a difficult one.

State Department officials who have dealt with Ky say he is a patriotic nationalist and once he became convinced that his coming here was bad for his country and would make it more difficult for the Nixon administration to support the Vietnam cause, he realized it would not be wise to come at this time.

It was pointed out that any message Ky would have for the American people most likely would be lost in the violence of the demonstrations.

Nixon Urges College Chiefs To Study Letter By Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has urged college administrators to outline to students J. Edgar Hoover's views on avoiding campus trouble.

Nixon sent administrators a letter in which the FBI director listed eight tactics employed by campus extremists to lure students into their activities.

The President called Hoover's letter "a cogent and enlightening analysis" of extremist tactics and urged college presidents to get the message to students.

In the letter, Hoover said the campus situation may be serious at some institutions but added: "Along with millions of other adults, I'm betting on the vast majority of students to remain fair-minded, tolerant, inquisitive, but also firm about certain basic principles of human dignity, respect for the rights of others and a willingness to learn."

Here are the eight extremist tactics listed by the FBI director:

— "They'll encourage you to lose respect for your parents and the older generation.

— "They'll try to convert you to the idea that your college is 'irrelevant' and a 'tool of the establishment.'

— "They'll ask you to abandon your basic common sense.

— "They'll try to envelope you in a mood of negativism, pessimism and alienation toward yourself, your school, your nation.

— "They'll encourage you to disrespect the law and hate the law enforcement officer.

— "They'll tell you that any action is honorable and right if it's sincere or idealistic in motivation.

— "They'll ask you to believe that you, as a student and citizen, are powerless by democratic means to effect change in our society.

— "They'll encourage you to hurl bricks and stones instead of logical argument at those who disagree with your views."

KSU Notes 'Think Week'

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Novelist
James A. Michener and advocates of consumer crusader
Ralph Nadar have urged Kent State University students to become involved in finding ways to help change society by working within existing frameworks.

Nichener and Nadar's Raiders were on campus Tuesday as part of the student government sponsored "Think Week," designed to help students learn of ways to bring about change without using violence. The theme of the week is "Power to the Peaceful."

Nadar's aids challenged the university to become a national center for student involvement in government affairs. Eric Moore of Findlay, an Ohio State University law student with the group, said that because of the campus disturbances in May in which four students were slain and nine others were wounded the world is interested in the reopening of the university—an event that otherwise would go unnoticed.

Michener, who is doing research for a book on the May 4 student confrontation with Ohio National Guardsmen in which the student deaths occurred, told a gathering of Kent students and faculty that a democracy cannot exist without universities.

He said he was "worried about the future of American education" and added that the closing of 760 American universities and colleges following the slayings was "almost a defeat of reason."
